the minimal polynomials of the images of unipotent elements in irreducible rational representations of the classical algebraic groups over fields of odd characteristic are found these polynomials have the form  $t^l - d$  and hence are completely determined by their degrees in positive characteristic the degree of such polynomial cannot exceed the order of a relevant element it occurs that for each unipotent element the degree of its minimal polynomial in an irreducible representation is equal to the order of this element provided the highest weight of the representation is large enough with respect to the ground field characteristic on the other hand classes of unipotent elements for which in every nontrivial representation the degree of the minimal polynomial is equal to the order of the element are indicated in the general case the problem of computing the minimal polynomial of the image of a given element of order  $p^s$  in a fixed irreducible representation of a classical group over a field of characteristic  $p > 2$  can be reduced to a similar problem for certain  $s$  unipotent elements and a certain irreducible representation of some semisimple group over the field of complex numbers for the latter problem an explicit algorithm is given results of explicit computations for groups of small ranks are contained in tables i xii the article may be regarded as a contribution to the programme of extending the fundamental results of hall and higman 1956 on the minimal polynomials from  $p$ -solvable linear groups to semisimple groups get the information needed to advocate for the significance of your library how do you make the case that your library is a valuable instruction center the teaching library helps librarians assess data on information literacy instruction programs so that they can better support the teaching role of the academic library in campus settings this practical professional resource features case studies from across the united states and canada in both public and private institutions that offer a variety of evaluation methods here are the latest easy to adopt ways of measuring your library's direct contribution to student learning on campus and off with a unique multifaceted approach to questions of assessment the teaching library is an important resource that not only offers the latest techniques but answers the larger question of how to make use of this data in ways that will best advocate information literacy instruction programs from creating a multidimensional assessment to turning an initiative into a program to teaching and learning goals and beyond this invaluable text covers many of the core issues those in this rapidly evolving field must contend with these contributions reinforce the importance of the learning that takes place in the classroom in the co curriculum the extra curriculum and the surrounding community some of the key topics covered in the teaching library are assessment practices such as 360 analysis attitudinal outcomes based and gap measured integrating the teaching library into core mission vision and values statements presenting the message of a library's value to internal audiences of colleagues building momentum and maintaining it tying information literacy assessment to campus wide assessment activities identifying and reaching end of program learning outcomes assessing the impact of the one shot session on student learning information literacy instruction and the credit course model promoting instruction among library and information science educators and many more the essays in the teaching library offer viable and practical ways for librarians to demonstrate their direct contribution to student learning in ways consistent with those accepted as valid across the campus an important resource for academic librarians and information science professionals the teaching library is also a useful tool for those in the campus community concerned with developing funding and continuing successful library programs professional staff such as alumni directors faculty and educators looking to make students more successful and researchers
