anaïs nin in 1955 was for all practical purposes a failed writer she could interest no publisher in her introspective and feminine fiction nor could she keep her past titles in print but at the same time she was keeping a diary begun when she was eleven years old in the diary of others nin begins to realize that the diary itself was her most valuable writing but she wonders how she could ever publish such a document filled with love affairs and deceptions as well as incest and bigamy without harming those she held most dear her brother her lover and especially her husband of more than thirty years when the diary of others opens nin has recently and bigamously married rupert pole her young lover in california she then struggles to keep a bicoastal double marriage alive and she vainly seeks a publisher for her novels she later begins a collaboration with two men who would change her fortunes literary agent qunther stuhlmann and publisher alan swallow and she is aided both financially and commercially by her long estranged lover and colleague henry miller whose rise to fame after the famous obscenity trials has given him the financial freedom to offer nin the proceeds from the publication of his letters to her during the 1930s and 40s after much deliberation nin comes up with a formula that allows her to publish her long anticipated paris diaries in such a way that she can describe her personal growth and relationships with fascinating characters such as miller otto rank and antonin artaud without disclosing the intimate details of her life the diary of others documents anaïs nin s ascension from obscurity and commercial failure to sudden vindication validation and fame writing in a diary is a really strange experience for someone like me not only because i ve never written anything before but also because it seems to me that later on neither i nor anyone else will be interested in the musings of a thirteen year old school girl oh well it doesn t matter i feel like writing anne frank the diary of a young girl is a remarkable first hand account of the life of a holocaust victim anne frank a young girl in her teenage anne documented her experiences from 1942 to 1944 during the german occupation of the netherlands living in hiding with her family for these tumultuous years anne documents not only the upheaval of the dark times but also the plain and simple emotions and views of a teenage girl this marvelously rendered account is not only a potent reminder of the horrors of the evils perpetrated by humans but also is a vivid and earnest testimonial of the human spirit the single most compelling personal account of the holocaust remains astonishing and excruciating the new york times how brilliantly anne frank captures the self conscious alienation and naïve self absorption of adolescence newsday marie bashkirtseff s diary was first published in 1887 and was only the second diary by a woman published in france till that date it was an immediate success british prime minister william gladstone referred to her diary as a book without a parallel and another early admirer was george bernard shaw her diary was cited as an inspiration by the american writer mary maclane whose own shockingly confessional diary was written a bare generation later and it was mentioned as a model by later writers who became known for their diaries including pierre louÿs katherine mansfield and anais nin bashkirtseff s diary has been called a strikingly modern psychological self portrait of a young gifted mind and her urgent prose which occasionally breaks out into dialogue remains extremely readable she was multilingual and despite her self involvement was a keen observer with an acute ear for hypocrisy so that her diary also offers a near novelistic account of the late nineteenth century european bourgeoisie a consistent theme throughout her journal is her deep desire to achieve fame inflected by her increasing fear that her intermittent illnesses might turn out to be tuberculosis
