The Law of Mutual Life Assurance with Special Reference to the Decision of Lord Cairns in the Kent Mutual Society's Case. To which is Appended ... a Verbatim Report of Lord Cairns's Judgment. By a Barrister-at-Law ... Reprinted, with ... Additions from the Review 1872 judgement calls tackles one of the most important and controversial legal questions in contemporary america how should judges interpret the constitution our constitution contains a great deal of language that is vague broad or ambiguous making its meaning uncertain many people believe this uncertainty allows judges too much discretion they suggest that constitutional adjudication is just politics in disguise and that judges are legislators in robes who read the constitution in accordance with their own political views some think that political decision making by judges is inevitable and others think it can be restrained by strict constructionist theories like textualism or originalism but at bottom both sorts of thinkers believe that judging has to be either tightly constrained and inflexible or purely political and unfettered there is they argue no middle ground farber and sherry disagree and in this book they describe and defend that middle ground they show how judging can be and often is both principled and flexible in other words they attempt to reconcile the democratic rule of law with the recognition that judges have discretion they explain how judicial discretion can be exercised responsibly describe the existing constraints that guide and cabin such discretion and suggest improvements in exploring how constitutional adjudication works in practice and how it can be made better farber and sherry cover a wide range of topics that are relevant to their thesis and also independently important including judicial opinion writing the use of precedent the judicial selection process the structure of the american judiciary and the nature of legal education they conclude with a careful look at how the supreme court has treated three of the most significant and sensitive constitutional issues terrorism abortion and affirmative action timely trenchant and carefully argued judgment calls is a welcome addition to the literature on the intersection of constitutional interpretation and american politics

From Judgment to Justice 2010 gasché expounds on aristotle heidegger and arendt in a major interpretative achievement that underscores what is at stake in political thought notre dame philosophical reviews as one of the most respected voices of continental philosophy today rodolphe gasché pulls together aristotle s conception of rhetoric martin heidegger s debate with theory and hannah arendt s conception of judgment in a single work on the centrality of these themes as fundamental to human flourishing in public and political life gasché s readings address the distinctively human space of the public square and the actions that occur there and his valorization of persuasion reflection and judgment reveals new insight into how the philosophical tradition distinguishes thinking from other faculties of the human mind here rodolphe gasché is at his best rigorous scholarly creative forceful laser focused on the issues at stake learned thoughtful and original he demands much of his readers but reading his work is rewarding in ways that can be profoundly affecting dennis j schmidt author of between word and image rodolphe gasché has long been one of the most meticulous readers of texts on the philosophical scene and here he once again offers a master class in how to do philosophy through interpretation robert bernasconi author of how to read sartre

Judgment Calls 2008-11-19 bad judgment is a quintessential fall from grace story about a man from humble beginnings who rose to the top of the legal profession only to be removed from the bench because of his bad judgment the intolerant attitudes of the elite bar and political necessity what did leo landreville really do and why were some of the most famous lawyers and politicians in canada in the 1960s determined to end his judicial career landreville was appointed one of her majesty s justices in 1956 after moving from sudbury to toronto to take up his job at osgoode hall he and his wife moved into the newly built and very fashionable benvenuto place and joined the best clubs but his elevated status was to be short lived as it turned out he had accepted a stock option from northern ontario natural gas when nong obtained the gas franchise in sudbury and he was the mayor soon after settling into his chambers at osgoode hall he exercised the option and pocketed 117 000 without having laid out a cent landreville was not the only politician to benefit from his dealings with nong the gas scandal as it was called brought an early end to the careers of three provincial conservative cabinet ministers and bruised the reputation of the liberal leader another beneficiary landreville was charged with municipal corruption and conspiracy but he managed to beat the accusations when the law society of upper canada convened a special committee found the judge guilty of misconduct and called upon the minister of justice to have him removed the landreville affair began the character assassination of landreville soon became a national sport and the judge found himself under investigation by a royal commission a joint parliamentary committee then recommended that landreville be removed from the bench instead he resigned in disgrace bad judgment is a probing account of judicial independence and of what should be done when the conduct of judges is brought into question a veritable who s who of canadian legal and political history it provides an inside look at the workings of the judiciary the law society of upper canada and the ontario and federal governments in their attempts to deal with a growing scandal that threatened to bring the administration of justice in canada into disrepute book jacket title summary field provided by blackwell north america inc all rights reserved

Rational Decision 1964 rodowick takes after the theories of hannah arendt and argues that thinking is an art we practice with and for each other in our communities in an education in judgment philosopher d n rodowick makes the definitive case for a philosophical humanistic education aimed at the cultivation of a life guided by both self reflection and interpersonal exchange such a life is an education in judgment the moral capacity to draw conclusions alone and with others and letting one s own judgments be answerable to the potentially contrasting judgments of others thinking for rodowick is an art we practice with and learn from each other on a daily basis in taking this approach rodowick follows the lead of hannah arendt who made judgment the cornerstone of her conception of community what is important for rodowick as for arendt is the cultivation of free relations in which we allow our judgments to be affected and transformed by those of others creating an ever widening fabric of intersubjective moral consideration that is a fragile fabric certainly but one that rodowick argues is worth pursuing caring for and preserving this original work thinks with and beyond arendt about the importance of the humanities and what the humanities amounts to beyond the walls of the university
