A Study of the Circulation of Ceramics in Cyprus from the 3rd Century BC to the 3rd Century AD 2015-10-26 this is the first monograph devoted solely to the ceramics of cyprus in the hellenistic and roman periods the island was by then no longer divided into kingdoms but unified politically first under ptolemaic egypt and later as a province in the roman empire submission to foreign rule was previously thought to have diluted if not obliterated the time honoured distinctive cyprriot character the ceramic evidence suggests otherwise the distribution of local and imported pottery in cyprus points to the existence of several regional exchange networks a division that also seems reflected by other evidence the similarities in material culture exchange patterns and preferential practices are suggestive of a certain level of regional collective self awareness from the 1st century bc onwards cyprus became increasingly engulfed by mass produced and standardized ceramic fine wares which seem ultimately to have put many of the indigenous makers of similar products out of business or forced them to modify their output also the ceramic record gradually became less diverse during the roman period than before developments which we today might be inclined to view as symptoms of an early form of globalisation

America, the Owner's Manual 2016-07-15 in 2016 americans fed up with the political process vented that frustration with their votes republicans nominated for president a wealthy businessman and former reality show host best known on the campaign trail for his sharp rhetoric against immigration and foreign trade democrats nearly selected a self described socialist who ran on a populist platform against the influence of big money in politics while it is not surprising that americans would channel their frustrations into votes for contenders who pledge to end business as usual the truth is that we don t have to pin our hopes for greater participation on any one candidate all of us have a say if we learn master and practice the skills of effective citizenship one of the biggest roadblocks to participation in democracy is the perception that privileged citizens and special interests command the levers of power and that everyday americans can t fight city hall that perception is undoubtedly why a 2015 pew charitable trusts survey found that 74 percent of those americans surveyed believed that most elected officials didn t care what people like them thought graham and hand intend to change that conventional wisdom by showing citizens how to flex their citizenship muscles they describe effective citizenship skills and provide tips from civic experts even more importantly they offer numerous examples of everyday americans who have used their skills to make democracy respond the reader will see themselves in these examples of citizens who chose to be victorious participants rather than tranquil spectators in the arena of democracy by the end of the book you will have new confidence that citizen participation is the lifeblood of america and will be ready to make governments work for you not the other way around

UGC NET JRF 1st Paper Book - Research Aptitude 2017-05-16 the brief description of tumours being wounds that do not heal by dr harold f dworak nearly three decades ago n engl j med 1986 has provided not only a vivid illustration of neoplastic diseases in general but also in retrospect conceptually a plausible immunological definition of cancers based on our current understanding in the field it could have even a multi dimensional meaning attached with this relates to several important issues which need to be addressed further i e in terms of a close link between chronic inflammation and tumourigenesis widely observed clinical and experimental evidence of immunity against tumours versus the highly immunosuppressive tumour microenvironment being associated and their underlying immunological mechanisms oncogenic basis as well as the true causal relationship in question recent findings from studies into the pathogenesis of autoimmunity and more importantly the mechanisms which protect against it have offered some new insights for our understanding in this direction chronic or persistent autoimmune like inflammatory conditions are evidently associated with tumor development the important question is about their true causal relationship chronic or persistent inflammation has been shown to contribute directly to tumour development by triggering neoplastic transformation and production of inflammatory mediators which could promote cancer cell survival proliferation and invasion on the other hand tumours are mutated self tissue cells to which the host immune system is largely tolerized otherwise although the mutations may give rise to the expression of tumour specific antigens tsa or tumour associated antigens taa most of these tsas taas are found to be poor immunogens the ongoing inflammatory conditions may therefore reflect a desperate attempt of the host immune system to mount anti tumour responses though ineffectively being a consequence of the continuous yet largely futile triggering by those poorly immunogenic tsas taas furthermore during autoimmune or overtly persistent immunological responses many regulatory mechanisms are triggered in the host in attempts to limit the ongoing harmful inflammatory reactions such a negative feedback regulation is known to be crucial in preventing normal individuals from immune mediated diseases as a result of the negative feedback loop however an excessive production of anti inflammatory or immunosuppressive molecules followed by the exhaustion of the immune effector cells may instead lower the ability of the host immune system to mount specific anti tumor responses allowing the escape of tumour or mutated cells from immunosurveillance this may also help to explain why the most effective way to enhance host immunity against cancer is by targeting the negative arm of immune regulation in this frontiers research topic we aim to gather current views from experts in these inherent overlapping fields of oncology autoimmunity and tumour immunology and to make them available to our potential readership who may be particularly interested in this cutting edge area by understanding how the immune system is normally regulated why dysregulation of which may cause the immunological oncological related diseases we also encourage further discussions as to how the so called self reactivity autoimmune responses can be alternatively switched on and redirected immunologically or molecularly for effective cancer treatment

Autoimmuno-Anti-Tumour Immunity (AATI) - Understanding the Immune Responses against "Self" & "Altered-self" 2016-02-05 the growth of the internet has been spectacular there are now more than 3 billion internet users across the globe some 40 per cent of the world s population the internet s meteoric rise is a phenomenon of enormous significance for the economic political and social life of contemporary societies however much popular and academic writing about the internet continues to take a celebratory view assuming that the internet s potential will be realised in essentially positive and transformative ways this was especially true in the euphoric moment of the mid 1990s when many commentators wrote about the internet with awe and wonderment while this moment may be over its underlying technocentrism the belief that technology determines outcomes lingers on and with it a failure to understand the internet in its social economic and political contexts misunderstanding the internet is a short introduction encompassing the history sociology politics and economics of the internet and its impact on society this expanded and updated second edition is a polemical sociologically and historically informed guide to the key claims that have been made about the online world it aims to challenge both popular myths and existing academic orthodoxies that surround the internet
