Antoni Gaudí (1852-1926) was a Spanish architect, designer, and sculptor. He is best known for his work in Barcelona, particularly the Sagrada Família. His style is a blend of traditional Catalan architecture and modernist principles. He was a member of the Gaudí School of Architecture. His work is characterized by its organic forms and use of local materials. He was a pioneer in the use of ceramic tiles and mosaics. His work has inspired many architects and designers around the world. He was a true visionary and his work continues to inspire us today.

when the corbusian international modern style with its contempt for ornament imposed itself on architecture figures like gaudi 1852 1926 were relegated to the sidelines in this volume lahuerta situates gaudi in his context and vindicates his fin de siecle bohemian modernity embodied in such powerful images as the equation of the spires of the sagrada familia with the flames rising from burning churches during the tragic week 1909 the story takes us to the barcelona of the early twentieth century when class struggle threatened to topple the prevailing capitalist model drawing on valuable first hand documents collected over several decades the author shows that gaudi was not an isolated eccentric but an architect who was keenly aware of the major theories and outstanding works of his time and the creator of revolutionary technical innovations his analyses of gaudi s writings reveals a pioneer in the use of industrial processes to produce ornamental details that may seem handmade today equally novel was the way that gaudi made use of his fame as a public figure a media personality thanks to the cartoons of the architect and his buildings in the popular press his influence on avant garde artists like dali who admired the edible appearance of the casa mila or picasso fascinated by the eroticism of the casa batllo attest to the importance of his contribution to culture this entertaining volume is part of columns of smoke a series of publications in which professor lahuerta turns his perceptive eye on the official narrative of modernity and its protagonists and the relationship between architecture decoration and the print media the fantastic works of antoni gaudí and the amsterdam school still appeal to the imagination and although the architects never met each other they were children of the same period they looked for beauty and individuality in a world which was becoming increasingly functional and impersonal at the heart of their designs are nature and its organic forms craftsmanship and traditional materials at the same time though they did not turn their backs on modernity embracing new techniques and production processes this publication gives insight to the similarities and differences between the work and philosophy of gaudí and the amsterdam school architects special contributions from spanish and dutch scientists are collected in this book
