a fascinating insight into the influence that politics has upon business practices and consumer behaviour and the development opportunities that this can provide the new political capitalism bridges the gap between the reality of the relationship between business and politics and the lack of familiarity of the business community even at the most senior levels with political thinking the book demonstrates how businesses that develop effective political antennae can enhance their performance in the emerging age of political capitalism it challenges the notion that business is or can ever be apolitical and argues that politics the visible reflection of social values and cultural trends shapes the environment in which business operates more and more people are becoming politicised in the sense that they have strong views about how our societies should function and the role that business must play socio political issues increasingly affect purchasing decisions with the marketplace becoming one way in which citizens express their political identity the rise of what some have called political consumerism markets themselves are politically constructed and investors increasingly focus on corporations political positions drawing upon extensive research and case studies this book weaves together socio political trends with business purpose strategy and operations from why businesses exist at all to the importance of diversity and what a company stands for both culturally and politically the new political capitalism dissects the constitutions divide into those that provide for a constitutionally protected set of rights where courts can strike down legislation and those where rights are protected predominantly by parliament where courts can interpret legislation to protect rights but cannot strike down legislation the uk s human rights act 1998 is regarded as an example of a commonwealth model of rights protections it is justified as a new form of protection of rights which promotes dialogue between the legislature and the courts dialogue being seen not just as a better means of protecting rights but as a new form of constitutionalism occupying a middle ground between legal and political constitutionalism this book argues that there is no clear middle ground for dialogue to occupy with most theories of legal and political constitutionalism combining legal and political protections as well as providing an account of interactions between the legislature and the judiciary nevertheless dialogue has a role to play it differs from legal and political constitutionalism in terms of the assumptions on which it is based and the questions it asks it focuses on analysing mechanisms of inter institutional interactions and assessing when these interactions can provide a better protection of rights facilitate deliberation engage citizens and act as an effective check and balance between institutions of the constitution this book evaluates dialogue in the uk constitution assessing the protection of human rights through the human rights act 1998 the common law and eu law it also evaluates court court dialogue between the uk court the european court of justice and the european court of human rights the conclusion evaluates the implications of the proposed british bill of rights and the referendum decision to leave the european union
