from its beginnings in the late eighteenth century the vibrant colonial port of penang attracted a diverse range of peoples enabled pioneering commercial enterprises and fomented inter ethnic collaboration and inter cultural borrowings the island came to be known as the pearl of the orient and for many travellers it was their first port of call in southeast asia in the early nineteenth century singapore displaced penang in international trade but the island remained a major focus of regional trade for this reason the story of penang s relations with the malay peninsula and other parts of southeast asia reveal a great deal about conditions within the region

this book explores race and multiculturalism in malaysia and singapore from a range of different disciplinary perspectives showing how race and multiculturalism are represented how multiculturalism works out in practice and how attitudes towards race and multiculturalism and multicultural practices have developed over time going beyond existing studies which concentrate on the politics and public aspects of multiculturalism this book burrows deeper into the cultural underpinnings of multicultural politics relating the subject to the theoretical angles of cultural studies and post colonial theory and discussing a range of empirical examples drawn from extensive original research covering diverse practices such as films weblogs music subcultures art policy discourse textbooks novels poetry which demonstrate overall how the identity politics of race and intercultural interaction are being shaped today it concentrates on two key asian countries particularly noted for their relatively successful record in managing ethnic differences at a time when many fast developing asian countries increasingly have to come to terms with cultural pluralism and migrant diversity a historical saga that brings back the past for those who could still remember and for the young who may wish to know how things used to be in the years between 1922 and 1982 from the beginning in pre war british ruled malaya the story revolves around the life of a boy as he grows to manhood it traces the migration of his family from southern thailand to penang after his father passes away his brief childhood living with his young widowed mother who subsequently remarried and thereafter his banishment as a youngster by his stepfather to war torn shanghai on his return he had to find a way to earn a living and there after to survive the bloody days of the japanese occupation even after the surrender of the japanese there was the lawless post war period in which he saw opportunities to eventually emerge as a taikor big brother in penang s chaotic underworld apart from opportunities the post war years also saw dangers like the emergency period when communist insurgents tried to destabilise the country finally a nation was born when malaya became an independent sovereign state and just as the new nation strived to build a future from its historical legacy the taikor sought to break away from his past involvement in triad activities to build a new life for himself and his family
