Engaged Learning in the Academy 2013-03-20 moore asks the question of whether and under what conditions experience constitutes a legitimate source of knowledge and learning in higher education drawing on theory and research the book addresses three types of challenges and opportunities facing experiential educators the epistemological the pedagogical and the institutional

Women in the Academy 2016 statistics show that women outnumber men at most universities and that women s pay still lags behind men s but numbers can only hint at the broader story this edited collection fills that gap with the stories of twelve women from part time faculty members to college preside

Proceedings of the National Academy of Education 1976 early in the 2000s a high school principal in minnesota dr bob perdaems faced a complex challenge the demographics of his school were shifting political tensions in the surrounding communities were rising and thanks to the no child left behind act s new testing and accountability requirements his school s performance was soon to be scrutinized more intensely and more publicly than ever before while he had several visions of how his school could continuously improve through these realities however he had no additional budget to bring his ideas to life undaunted dr bob set to creating school improvements the best way he knew how and that of course he could afford he prioritized his school s areas for growth found teachers who would lend minds and hands and gathered them to look at the blueprints what the academy taught us is a book about the collaborative school improvement culture dr bob created in his minnesota high school the principles that initiated it the collective effort that kept it running and the lasting effects it had on its teachers and students the book also brilliantly explores how bottom up approaches like dr bob s fare in the current era which seeks to transform schools through more top down and disruptive means ultimately what the academy taught us offers today s educators a way forward while largely viewing the difficult work of school improvement through the prism of a single school it presents abundant recommendations about how schools everywhere can build effective and continuous improvement from the bottom up

Improving Educational Achievement 1978 this book weaves together different strands of research in the area of lifelong learning that concentrates particularly on learning in alternative settings and ways such experiential learning and informal and community learning drawing upon international research the book examines how these strands of research can contribute to each other the contributions to this book are based on material presented at a conference at the centre for research in lifelong learning uk and they focus on research into key issues of policy and practice in lifelong learning establishing a wider framework for debate about the meaning and significance of lifelong learning this timely and thought provoking book provides practitioners in the field with a relevant and current discussion on some very important ideas about non formal education
