this book serves as an indispensable guide for engineers scientists and researchers exploring the fundamental aspects of corrosion in reinforced concrete its originality lies in the coupling between the reinforcement corrosion of reinforced concrete and its mechanical behavior the authors describe the specific theoretical foundations of the corrosion of steel in concrete and its interactions with the structural aspects including service cracking and defects in the placement of concrete the book contains a study of the mechanisms of degradation of the mechanical behavior of reinforcements and the reinforced concrete composite such as reduction of ductility bearing capacity redistribution of efforts by formation of plastic hinges and increase in the beam deflection in service a diagnostic method based on corrosion induced crack detection is presented in the book and then paired with a recalculation method which allows us to predict the different aspects of the residual mechanical behavior several end of life els and elu criteria are described and the authors propose an approach to estimate the residual lifetime finally the book presents the cathodic protection that allows the progression of corrosion to be contained within the corroded structures as well as academics this book is aimed at civil engineers who are faced with the issue of corrosion in aging structures explores corrosion in concrete examines the influence of pre cracks on corrosion discusses corrosion diagnostics and corrosion induced cracks presents residual mechanical properties of corroded structures effect of corrosion on steel behavior load bearing capacity yielding capacity deflection of corroded beams and the effect of corrosion on bond provides repair and maintenance considerations cathodic protection and carbon fiber reinforced polymer used to strengthen and restore bearing capacity this pioneering interdisciplinary work shows how rituals allow us to live in a perennially imperfect world drawing on a variety of cultural settings the authors utilize psychoanalytic and anthropological perspectives to describe how ritual like play creates as if worlds rooted in the imaginative capacity of the human mind to create a subjunctive universe the ability to cross between imagined worlds is central to the human capacity for empathy ritual they claim defines the boundaries of these imagined worlds including those of empathy and other realms of human creativity such as music architecture and literature the authors juxtapose this ritual orientation to a sincere search for unity and wholeness the sincere world sees fragmentation and incoherence as signs of inauthenticity that must be overcome our modern world has accepted the sincere viewpoint at the expense of ritual dismissing ritual as mere convention in response the authors show how the conventions of ritual allow us to live together in a broken world ritual is work endless work but it is among the most important things that we humans do
