Max Havelaar 2019-03-05 a fierce indictment of colonialism max havelaar is a masterpiece of dutch literature based on the author's own experience as an administrator in the dutch east indies in the 1850s a brilliantly inventive fiction that is also a work of burning political outrage max havelaar tells the story of a renegade dutch colonial administrator's ultimately unavailing struggle to end the exploitation of the indonesian peasantry havelaar's impassioned exposé is framed by the fatuous reflections of an amsterdam coffee trader drystubble into whose hands it has fallen thus a tale of the jungles and villages of indonesia is interknit with one of the houses and warehouses of bourgeois amsterdam where the tidy profits from faraway brutality not only accrue but are counted as a sign of god's grace multatuli meaning i have suffered greatly was the pen name of eduard douwes dekker and his novel caused a political storm when it came out in holland max havelaar however is as notable for its art as it is for its politics layering not only different stories but different ways of writing including plays poems lists letters and a wild accumulation of notes to furious hilarious and disconcerting effect this masterpiece of dutch literature confronts the fixities of power with the protean and subversive energy of the imagination

Max Havelaar 1949 this historic book may have numerous typos and missing text purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book without typos from the publisher not indexed not illustrated 1868 edition excerpt chapter xiv continuation of stern's composition you know began havelaar that the dutch possessions on the west coast of sumatra are bounded on the north by independent districts of which atchin is the most important it is said that a secret article in the treaty of 1824 restrains us from extending our frontier in that direction beyond the river singkel general van damme who with a faux air napouon wanted to extend his government as far as possible here therefore stopped short at the insurmountable obstacle i must believe in the existence of that secret article because otherwise it would surprise me that the rajahs¹ of troomon and analaboo whose provinces are not without importance on account of their active trade in pepper have not long ere now been brought under the dutch power you know how easy it is to find a pretext for war with such petty sovereigns and for the annexation of their territory to steal a province will always be easier than to steal a mill i believe that general van damme would even have taken a mill if he had pleased and do not understand therefore how he could have abstained from those provinces in the north if there had not existed more substantial reasons for so doing than right and justice however this may be he extended his conquests not north but east the provinces mandheling and ankola the latter was the name of the assistant besidency formed out of the hardly tranquillized battah countries were not yet quite freed from atchinese influence for when once fanaticism has taken firm root in a country extirpation of it is difficult although the atchinese were no longer there but this was not enough for the governor he extended his power to the east coast and dutch
