this book provides an overview of contemporary trends and challenges in maritime energy management. Coordinated action is necessary to achieve a low carbon and energy efficient maritime future and this is the prevailing framework aimed at reducing greenhouse gas emissions resulting from maritime industry activities. The book familiarizes readers with the status quo in the field and paves the way for finding solutions to perceived challenges. The 34 contributions cover six important aspects: regulatory framework, energy efficient ship design, energy efficient ship and port operation, economic and social dimensions, alternative fuels, and wind assisted ship propulsion and marine renewable energy. This pioneering work is intended for researchers and academics as well as practitioners and policymakers involved in this important field.

this book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 14th international conference entitled "Beyond Databases, Architectures and Structures: BDAS 2018" held in Poznań, Poland, in September 2018 during the IFIP World Computer Congress. It consists of 38 carefully reviewed papers selected from 102 submissions. The papers are organized in topical sections: namely, Big Data and Cloud Computing, Architectures, Structures and Algorithms for Efficient Data Processing, Artificial Intelligence, Data Mining and Knowledge Discovery, Text Mining, Natural Language Processing, Ontologies and Semantic Web, Image Analysis and Multimedia Mining.

The past 100 years of accelerator based research have led the field from first insights into the structure of atoms to the development and confirmation of the standard model of physics. Accelerators have been a key tool in developing our understanding of the elementary particles and the forces that govern their interactions. This book describes the past 100 years of accelerator development with a special focus on the technological advancements in the field, the connection of the various accelerator projects to key developments and discoveries in the standard model, how accelerator technologies open the door to other applications in medicine and industry, and finally presents an outlook of future accelerator projects for the coming decades.

This report examines whether the IMF has effectively leveraged an important asset: data. It finds that in general the IMF has been able to rely on a large amount of data of acceptable quality and that data provision from member countries has improved markedly over time. Nonetheless, problems with data or data practices have at times adversely affected the IMF's surveillance and lending activities. The roots of data problems are diverse, ranging from problems due to member countries' capacity constraints or reluctance to share sensitive data to internal issues such as lack of appropriate staff incentives, institutional rigidities, and long standing work practices. Efforts to tackle these problems are piecemeal. The report finds that without a clear, comprehensive strategy that recognizes data as an institutional strategic asset, not just a consumption good for economists, the report makes a number of recommendations that could promote greater progress in this regard. the purpose of this report is to provide national and state level policymakers private sector investors civil society and donors with an analysis of the rural economy of mon state and pathways to improved prosperity for its population the analysis is based on a representative survey of rural households which make up 73 percent of mon state s 2 million residents and extensive interviews with farmers traders processors local leaders and government officials whereas some parts of the mon state economy are quite dynamic such as construction others are stagnant and far from reaching their full potential furthermore the dynamic sectors are heavily dependent on remittances from migrants to neighboring countries the current pattern of donor investment is heavily focused on necessary infrastructure and energy investments but with only very limited support to productive sectors especially agriculture and fisheries major investments in education both formal and vocational training are also necessary to support the growth of a modern economy the analysis in this report identifies options for more balanced growth leading to a vibrant economy in which returning migrants can invest and find employment
