Europe and Africa joining the army in 1942 Leonard Levenson was recruited into the 82nd Airborne for his skills as a typist and draftsman. Levenson thus gained a ringside seat for some of the greatest campaigns of World War II from the invasions of North Africa, Sicily, and France to the Netherlands, the Bulge, and the drive on Berlin throughout the campaigns. Levenson was at the division's nerve center typing orders, drafting battle maps, and acting as liaison. A rare enlisted man with top secret status, he was in the room with Gen. Patton, Field Marshal Montgomery, and other luminaries who came through headquarters. But Levenson also saw battle up close by ship, plane, glider, parachute, and jeep with the rest of the All American Division. He was on the ground in Africa and the Ardennes, facing ever-present enemy fire rising from private to master sergeant. Levenson thought that he had the best job in the army in this revealing memoir. However, he never fails to give full credit to the men on the firing line who suffered the greatest hardships and casualties.

Surrounded by Heroes 2007-09-01 To every member of the 82nd Airborne Division who dropped as part of the American paratroop landings during World War Two, they breathed a little easier knowing their commander, General James H. Gavin, would be jumping with them. General Gavin's paratroops drop-landed and fought in Sicily, Normandy on D-Day, and during the abortive attempt to capture the Rhine bridges during Operation Market Garden. He shared the risks of all his men parachuting into enemy territory, often only armed with his GI issue rifle. His memoirs are an outstanding addition to the literature of the Airborne in World War II.

Airborne Warfare 2020-04-13 Karl Zinsmeister's Boots on the Ground includes 32 color photographs taken by the author during the month he was embedded with the 82nd in Kuwait and Iraq. This is a riveting account of the war in Iraq, moving north with the 82nd Airborne units of the 82nd Airborne Division, departing Kuwait and convoying to Iraq's Tallil Air Base en route to night and day battles within the major city of Samawah and its intact bridges across the Euphrates. Boots on the Ground quickly becomes an action-filled microcosm of the new kinds of ultramodern war fighting showcased in the overall battle for Iraq. At the same time, it remains specific to the daily travails of the soldiers. Karl Zinsmeister, a frontline reporter who traveled with the 82nd, vividly conveys the careful planning and technical wizardry that go into today's warfare, even local firefights. He brings to life the constant air-ground interactions that are the great innovation of modern precision combat. What exactly does it feel like to travel with a spirited body of fighting men, to come under fire, to cope with the battlefield stresses of sleep deprivation and a steady diet of field rations for weeks on end? Readers of this day-to-day diary are left with not only a flashing sequence of strong mental images but also a notion of the sounds and smells and physical sensations that make modern military action unforgettable. Ultimately, Boots on the Ground is a human story, a moving portrayal of the powerful bonds of affection, trust, fear, and dedication that bind real soldiers involved in battle. There are unexpected elements: the humor that bubbles up amidst dangerous fighting, the pathos of a badly wounded young boy, the affection openly exhibited by many American soldiers, love of country, love of family, and hometown love of each other. This is a true life tale of superbly trained men in extraordinary circumstances, packed with concrete detail, often surpassing fiction for sheer drama.

Boots on the Ground 2004-10-05 This new book tells the complete story of the famous 82nd Airborne Division from its formation in 1917 through its legendary World War II campaigns in Sicily, Normandy, and Holland, Vietnam, Grenada, Nicaragua, Operation Desert Storm, to the present and examines the many changes from a World War I infantry division to the rapid deployment organization it is today. The 82nd helped develop the concepts of airborne warfare during World War II. After the war, the 82nd continued to develop airborne techniques and trained to provide the United States with a strategic deployment force. Since World War II, the division has been called upon to assist in domestic and foreign disturbances. Since World War I, the division has gone through many changes but it still bears its World War I nickname, The All American.

The All American 2001 This is a new release of the original 1949 edition.

The Story of the 82nd Airborne in the Year 1948, Fort Bragg, North Carolina 2013-10 On the 82nd Airborne Division in World War 2

Saga of the All American 2004-03-01 This World War II memoir follows McKenzie's transformation from a green recruit into a hardened combat veteran after joining the 82nd Airborne as a field artillery paratrooper. The retired chemical engineer looks back on his involvement in two months of continuous frontline combat. 5 maps, 24 photos.

On Time, on Target 2000 Captain Dominic J. Caraccilo was the commander of Headquarters Company, 2nd Brigade, 82nd Airborne Division, the Ready Brigade of the National Command Authority, and the first combat forces deployed to Saudi Arabia in what would eventually become Operation Desert Storm. His account, drawn from his personal log of the brigade's 227-day deployment and supported by many primary documents, is a grunt-level view of the Persian Gulf War from the thoughts of the paratroopers as they left their homes to their attack on Iraqi forces.
