Jewish Post-Biblical History Through Great Personalities from Jochanan Ben Zakkai Through Moses Mendelssohn

1918

this book is a comparative study in the hermeneutics of the ancient interpretations of the biblical joseph story assuming that every interpretation results from a creative encounter between the ultimately open text of scripture and the specific thought world of the interpreter it examines the particular way in which each exegete construes the biblical outline of joseph s character paying special attention to the literary nature of the sources

the study begins with an analysis of the narrative methods and the hermeneutic potential of the biblical story and then proceeds to the intertestamental evidence the central concern of this study is to compare the different interpretations of the philosopher philo the historian josephus and the midrash genesis rabbah these sources do not only range over a considerable amount of time but significantly derive respectively from the greek and hebrew cultural realm consequently their figures of joseph fulfil distinctly different purposes ranging from an idealisation of joseph as a hellenistic politician to autobiographical apologetics and religious instruction

Diaspora

this book is a comparative study of early jewish interpretations of the biblical outline of joseph s character it focuses on the treatises of philo who idealises the figure as a hellenistic politician on josephus s autobiographical account and the midrash genesis rabbah which uses the figure mostly for religious instruction

sanctified aggression allies itself neither with the easy assumption that religions are by definition violent and that only the secular humanist humane can offer a place of refuge from the ravages of religious authority nor with the equally facile opposing view that religion expresses the best of human aspirations and that this best is always capable of diffusing or sublating the worst rather it works from the premise that biblical jewish and christian vocabularies continue to resonate inspire and misfire some of the essays here explore how these vocabularies and symbols have influenced or resonate with events such as the massacre of jews in jedwabne poland 1941 the rwandan massacre 1994 the tragedy at columbine high school 1999 and the emergence of the phineas priesthood of white supremacists in north america other contributors examine how themes of martyrology sacrifice and the messianic continue to circulate and mutate in literature music drama and film the collective conclusion is that it is not possible to control biblical and religious violence by simply identifying canonical trouble spots then fencing them off with barbed wire or holding peace summits around them nor is it always possible to draw clear lines between problem and non problem texts witnesses and perpetrators victims and aggressors or reality and art
