the government s draft consumer rights bill has the potential to consolidate simplify and modernise consumer law however issues and inconsistencies must be resolved the current proposals would apply a statutory right that services under a contract must be provided with reasonable care and skill a fault based standard this does not provide sufficient consumer protection the draft bill should require that services must achieve the stated result or one which could be reasonably expected an outcomes based standard as the bank of ireland case demonstrated the right to terminate a contract does not necessarily protect consumers from detriment this report recommends an addition to the grey list the indicative list of contract terms which may be regarded as unfair the government s proposals for enhanced consumer measures which would require traders that have breached consumer law to compensate consumers are welcome however private enforcers should also be able to use them the collective proceedings regime has the potential to improve access to redress for victims of competition law breaches but the government must clarify the certification requirements for such proceedings the creation of rights and remedies for digital content is welcome but the government must do more to communicate how the proposals will work in practice under the draft bill the remedies available to consumers of digital content would depend on whether the content is intangible such as a music download or tangible such as a cd in appropriate circumstances consumers should have the right to reject and obtain a refund irrespective of whether they purchase intangible or tangible digital content

Transforming Religious Liberties 2017-10-26 across europe market mechanisms are spreading into areas where they did not exist before in public administration market governance is displacing other ways of coordinating public services in social policy the welfare state is retreating from its historic task of protecting citizens from the discipline of the market in industrial relations labor and management are negotiating with an eye to competitiveness often against new non union market players what is marketization and what are its effects this book uses employment services in denmark germany and great britain as a window to explore the rise of market mechanisms based on more than 100 interviews with funders managers front line workers and others the authors discuss the internal workings of these markets and the organizations that provide the services this book gives readers new tools to analyse market competition and its effects it provides a new conceptualization of the markets themselves the dilemmas and tradeoffs that they generate and the differing services and workplaces that result it is aimed at students and researchers in the applied fields of social policy public administration and employment relations and has important implications for comparative political economy and welfare states

The Marketization of Employment Services

this book attempts to systematise the present interrelationship between fundamental rights and the eu internal market in the field of positive integration its intention is simple to examine the way in which and the extent to which fundamental rights protection is realised through eu internal market legislation to that end the analysis is conducted around four rights or sets of rights data protection freedom of expression fundamental labour rights and the right to health the book assesses not only what substantive level of protection is achieved for these fundamental rights but it also estimates whether there is a fundamental rights culture that informs current legislative practice finally it asks the overarching question whether the current state of harmonisation amounts to a fundamental rights policy the book offers a much more varied picture of the eu s fundamental rights policy in and through the eu internal market than perhaps initially expected moreover it builds the case for a more conscious approach to dealing with and enhancing fundamental rights protection in and through internal market legislation and advocates a leading role for the legislature in the establishment of an internal market that is firmly based on respect for fundamental rights
