quand la folie parle presents a timely reinvigoration of the complex subject of madness and its literary manifestations this stimulating study authored by a range of young and talented international scholars is of key importance in defining and refining our ongoing endeavours to theorise and analyse the literary representations of the problematics of mental health by including discussions of texts that speak of madness as well as those that speak from madness this volume demonstrates that in fact the non sense of madness achieves a force of expression often more powerful than the usual order of logic embracing the scientific the religious the medical the psychoanalytic the historical the erotic and of course the properly literary this wide ranging historically informed collection is particularly significant in its exploration of both the madwoman and the madman and exhibits an inclusiveness which extends to the genres and modes of the texts examined the authors discussed from nerval and houellebecq to ndiaye and lê provide a refreshingly balanced picture of mental illness presenting madness or depression as a contestatory creative stance against often mind numbing social racial or consumerist conventions while refusing to play down the inevitable difficulties accompanying this isolating condition the dialectic effect referenced in the title of the collection extends not only to the dynamics at work within the volume itself as the different contributions implicitly dialogue with one another but equally to the reader of these essays who is engaged throughout in the debates put forward
