What We Owe Children 2010 how do children learn how are they taught these are two fundamental questions in education caleb gattegno provides a direct and lucid analysis and concludes that much current teaching far from feeding and developing the learning process actually stifles it memory for instance the weakest of the mental powers available for intelligent use is almost the only faculty to be exploited in the educational system and holds little value in preparing a student for the future gattegno s answer is to show how learning and teaching can properly work together what schools should achieve and what parents have a right to expect

What We Owe Children 1975 kinnear presents five case studies of professional women in manitoba university teachers physicians lawyers nurses and schoolteachers although the unrelenting efforts of nineteenth century feminists won women access to higher education and the professions the author reveals that most women whether in male or female dominated professions were forced to accept subordinate positions they responded with acquiescence indifference resentment or resistance kinnear considers the reasons for and the cost of these various strategies in addition to quantitative data culled from census and other records kinnear has collected testimony from more than two hundred professional women a rich mine of information a significant contribution to the growing literature on women and the professions in subordination helps explain why professional women continue to fight for equality today

In Subordination 1995-02-20 sexuality and subordination uses the insights of a range of disciplines to examine the construction of gender in nineteenth century britain and france with contributions from history literature sociology and philosophy its interdisciplinary approach demonstrates the extent to which a common focus can illuminate problems inaccessible to any single discipline victorianism is generally understood to mean sexual double standards hypocrisy and prudery among the middle classes but as this collection shows the representation of sexuality in the nineteenth century was more diverse and complex than is sometimes realized both art and literature point to the deployment of sexual metaphors and imagery and the language of educated public opinion was shaped by the dichotomy between mind and matter between rationality and sexuality the contributors to this volume explore how women in questioning their subordination had to challenge a construction of femininity which imposed sexual ignorance

Family Life and the Subordination of Women in the Teaching Profession 1986 this brief history presents the essential story of the subordination of african americans in the u s captured in a 1968 cartoon by pulitzer prize winning cartoonist john fischetti the drawing is of a black man handcuffed to a wall with cuffs labeled white racism the caption reads why don t they lift themselves up by their own bootstraps like we did bootstraps shows just how little lift up there has been and how the handcuffs of white racism have been and continue to be the cause unique in its combination of comprehensiveness and brevity bootstraps is written in language for the general reader yet its extensive endnotes will make it useful to both scholars and students its succinct overview of the subordination history includes an in depth treatment of residential segregation a legacy of slavery and a central problem of our time and a response to the view that today s racial inequality is due largely to african americans own moral and cultural failures by addressing a serious omission in the way we have educated our children the book s narration of our white racism history may make a contribution to a much needed confrontation with our racist past

White Supremacy and Negro Subordination; Or, Negroes a Subordinate Race, and (so-called) Slavery Its Normal Condition 1870 when african scholars lament over the near destruction of african cultures they do not reflect the reality of african women s historical traditions of empowerment and inclusion in pre colonial pre christian african societies which were also lost in the same process of western christian cultural imperialism similarly most male church theologians writing or speaking about inculturation do not address the deeper cultural issues which impact heavily on african women

Subordination (RLE Feminist Theory) 2012-11-12 there are approximately 150 million people of african descent in latin america yet afro descendants have been consistently marginalized as undesirable elements of the society latin america has nevertheless long prided itself on its absence of u s styled state mandated jim crow racial segregation laws this book disrupts the traditional narrative of latin america s legally benign racial past by comprehensively examining the existence of customary laws of racial regulation and the historic complicity of latin american states in erecting and sustaining racial hierarchies tanya katerí hernández is the first author to consider the salience of the customary law of race regulation for the contemporary development of racial equality laws across the region therefore the book has a particular relevance for the contemporary u s racial context in which jim crow laws have long been abolished and a post racial rhetoric undermines the commitment to racial equality laws and policies amidst a backdrop of continued inequality

Subordination 2012-10-11 in terms of its linguistic and cultural make up the continent of south america provides linguists and anthropologists with a complex puzzle of language diversity the continent teems with small language families and isolates and even languages spoken in adjacent areas can be typologically vastly different from each other this volume intends to provide a taste of the linguistic diversity found in south america within the area of clause subordination the potential variety in the strategies that languages can use to encode subordinate events is enormous yet there are clearly dominant patterns to be discerned switch reference marking clause chaining nominalization and verb serialization the book also contributes to the continuing debate on the nature of syntactic complexity as evidenced in subordination

Overcoming Women's Subordination in the Igbo African Culture and in the Catholic Church 2001 recent studies on the syntax and semantics of complex sentences have dealt with several challenges to the traditional boundaries between coordination and subordination some constructions belong to one of the two types according to syntactic criteria but relate to the other type on semantic grounds whereas other constructions are not compatible with either the canonical syntactic or semantic tests traditionally employed to establish this distinction other constructions by contrast seem to have evolved in such a way that they now cross the divide between both types the collection of papers in this volume delves further into the theoretical implications of previous analyses and focuses on a wide array of data from different languages taking those challenges as a point of departure to develop innovative perspectives and to advance thought provoking ideas
