a strikingly honest look into islamic culture in particular women and islam and what it takes for one woman to recreate herself in the land of invisible women unexpectedly denied a visa to remain in the united states qanta ahmed a young british muslim doctor becomes an outcast in motion on a whim she accepts an exciting position in saudi arabia this is not just a new job this is a chance at adventure in an exotic land she thinks she understands a place she hopes she will belong what she discovers is vastly different the kingdom of saudi arabia is a world apart a land of unparalleled contrast she finds rejection and scorn in the places she believed would most embrace her but also humor honesty loyalty and love and for qanta more than anything it is a land of opportunity very few islamic books for women give a firsthand account of what it s like to live in a place where muslim women continue to be oppressed and treated as inferior to men but if you want to learn more about the islamic culture in an unflinchingly real way this book is for you in this stunningly written book a western trained muslim doctor brings alive what it means for a woman to live in the saudi kingdom i ve rarely experienced so vividly the shunning and shaming racism and anti semitism but the surprise is how dr ahmed also finds tenderness at the tattered edges of extremism and a life changing pilgrimage back to her muslim faith gail sheehy wolfe does an exemplary job of detailing the ceremonies performed at mecca and the reasons behind them highly recommended library journal starred review this updated and expanded edition of one thousand roads to mecca collects significant works by observant travel writers from the east and west over the last ten centuries including two new contemporary narratives creating a comprehensive multifaceted literary portrait of the enduring tradition since its inception in the seventh century the pilgrimage to mecca has been the central theme in a large body of islamic travel literature beginning with the European Renaissance it has also been the subject for a handful of adventurous writers from the West who through conversion or connivance managed to slip inside the walls of a city forbidden to non-Muslims. These very different literary traditions form distinct impressions of a spirited conversation in which Mecca is the common destination and Islam the common subject of inquiry along with an introduction by Reza Aslan. Featured writers include Ibn Battuta, J. L. Burckhardt, Sir Richard Burton, The Begum of Bhopal, John F. Keane, Winifred Stegar, Muhammad Asad, Lady Evelyn Cobbold, Jalal al-e-Ahmad, and Malcolm X. One Thousand Roads to Mecca is a historically, geographically, and ethnically diverse collection of travel writing that adds substantially to the literature of Islam and the West, serving as an excellent introduction to a religion, people, culture, and philosophy. Despite the position that sport occupies at the centre of public attention and despite the billions of consumers and immense coverage which it attracts from around the globe, it seems that the media prioritise coverage of only a very small fraction of sporting events and a few prominent athletes. It goes without saying that sport in the media is dominated by men; they are a large majority among athletes, consumers, journalists, and producers. This book will shed new light on the long-discussed question of gendered sporting coverage in an era when the Olympics can be dubbed the Women's Games. Some of the contributions present new perspectives such as the relationship between media and sport in Poland, media presentations of men and women in gender-adequate and inadequate sports competition between women and men participating in the same events the presentation of celebrities and the framing of doping within the context of gender relations furthermore the book focuses not only on athletes sports and events but also on consumers such as hooligans and their brand of masculinity and on journalists such as mike penner who attempted to transgress gender boundaries this book was originally published as a special issue of sport in society
