in the past few decades societies in asia have experienced rapid and dramatic changes in their economic social and political spheres despite the wide diversity among these countries a few general trends can be observed globalization has swept across asia bringing intensive economic interactions with a strong commitment to liberalism and market capitalism wage labour has become the common form of employment individuals as well as countries are increasingly exposed to the competitive and uncertain global market employment protection particularly for vulnerable labour groups youth women seniors and migrants has become a pressing issue for most asian governments industrialization and urbanization have had a major impact on demographics family structures and normative frameworks the declining fertility rate has been recognized as a defining feature of a modern society leading to small families and reducing instances of multi generational co residency changing family structures have contributed to changes in family values and roles especially the role of women sometimes willingly sometimes compelled women are entering the workplace in increasing numbers particularly as migrant workers similarly the elderly are experiencing changes in their roles and participation in society family duties compete and are often in conflict with the demands of work the issue of providing adequate and quality care to family members has been exacerbated by the fact that asian societies are ageing it is commonly acknowledged that in asian societies personal care and support needs are primarily met by family both immediate and extended and to a lesser degree by community networks governments had gradually established their own social welfare systems in an effort to support economic growth and sustain their legitimacy by meeting certain recognized social needs the success of these ventures varies across societies and naturally there have been criticisms of the breadth and depth of these provisions this book addresses social issues related to family ageing and work that arise from these changes in japan korea taiwan hong kong china philippine and sri lanka these societies represent different levels of economic and social development but face similar challenges and their social interventions can be usefully compared this variety of subjects provides the reader with a more comprehensive understanding of the changes that have occurred the problems that have emerged and the strategies that have been adopted this volume provides insight into ways of addressing social issues in this rapidly changing part of the world

This edited volume looks at regional integration processes in Asia whilst integration in the region defined as Southeast and East Asia is not a new process; it has gained momentum in recent years. Two developments have acted as catalysts for integration: first, at the economic level, the Asian crisis of 1997 has been the watershed for most countries in the region ever since there have been continuing search processes for sovereignty-enhancing types of economic policies and the region is one location where policy makers look for new avenues to strengthen the position of their countries. The second major development is the continuing rise of China in the region. Today China is not only the manufacturing powerhouse of the region but it increasingly functions as a benign hegemon in Asia. Integration processes in Asia take place at several levels in trade, finance, and security affairs. This book analyses these dimensions of integration and sheds light on the prospects for successful integration. It investigates the puzzling, sometimes contracting trends of co-operation and integration in Asia. The contributors to this volume look at a theme that is of growing importance to the discipline of political science as much as it is relevant for policy makers by combing the analysis of the three dimensions of integration the evolution of regionalism in asia enables readers to gain a broad understanding of the theory and practice of the integration processes
