Exiles and Homecomings 1983 a record of the letters of the energetic and magnanimous es kia mphahlele when chabani manganyi published the first edition of selected letters 25 years ago as a companion volume to exiles and homecomings a biography of es kia mphahlele the idea of mphahlele s death was remote and poetic the title bury me at the marketplace suggested that immortality of a kind awaited mphahlele in the very coming and going of those who remember him and whose lives he touched it suggested too the energy and magnanimity of mphahlele the man whose personality and intellect as a writer and educator would carve an indelible place for him in south africa s public sphere that death has now come and we mourn it manganyi s words at the time have acquired a new significance in the symbolic marketplace he noted the drama of life continues relentlessly and the silence of death is unmasked for all time the silence of death is certainly unmasked in this volume in its record of mphahlele s rich and varied life his private words his passions and obsessions his arguments his loves hopes achievements and even some of his failures here the reader will find many facets of the private man translated back into the marketplace of public memory despite the personal nature of the letters the further horizons of this volume are the contours of south africa s literary and cultural history the international affiliations out of which it has been formed particularly in the diaspora that connects south africa to the rest of the african continent and to the black presence in europe and the united states this selection of mphahlele s own letters has been greatly expanded it has also been augmented by the addition of letters from mphahlele s correspondents among them such luminaries as langston hughes and nadine gordimer it seeks to illustrate the networks that shaped mphahlele s personal and intellectual life the circuits of intimacy intellectual inquiry of friendship scholarship and solidarity that he created and nurtured over the years

Renewal Time 1988 some of the essays in this book notably those concerned with examining western influences on sub saharan african writings tracing shakespearean and brechtian echoes in nigerian drama for instance or following the footprints of sherlock holmes in swahili detective fiction fit the traditional definition of comparative literature these are essays that cross national literary boundaries and sometimes transcend language barriers as well they look for correspondences in related literary phenomena from widely dispersed areas of the globe bringing together what is akin from what is akimbo but most of the essays included here involve closer comparisons two focus on works produced in different languages within the same african nation yoruba and english in nigeria afrikaans and english in south africa and one presents a taxonomy of dominant literary forms in english in three east african nations others concentrate on the oeuvre of a single author and on the likely future output of exiled writers who soon will be returning home one essay contrasts discursive tendencies within the same text and another investigates conflicting african and western religious beliefs a great variety of comparative methodologies is deployed here not all of these are transnational multilingual or pluralistic in scope the last two groups of essays deal with matters of characterization and authorial reputation studies of the depiction of african americans politicians and women in a wide range of african literary texts are followed by an assessment of the current standing of anglophone africa s leading authors in entering such highly contested terrain the comparatist approach adopted has been that of the neutral witness to early african attempts comparatist in their own way to define an african canon of classic texts authors discussed include ama ata aidoo ghana chinua achebe john pepper clark cyprian ekwensi d o fagunwa wole soyinka and amos tutuola nigeria peter abrahams j m coetzee nadine gordimer alex la guma thomas mofolo es kia mphahlele and karel schoeman south africa

Afrika, My Music 2014 wide ranging and engaging selves in question considers the various ways in which auto biographical accounts situate and question the self in contemporary southern africa the twenty seven interviews presented here consider both the ontological status and the representation of the self they remind us that the self is constantly under construction in webs of interlocution and that its status and representation are always in question the contributors therefore look at ways in which auto biographical practices contribute to placing understanding and troubling the self and selves in postcolonies in the current global constellation they examine topics such as the contexts conducive to production processes the contents and forms of auto biographical accounts and finally their impact on the producers and the audience in doing so they map out a multitude of variables including the specific historical juncture geo political locations social positions cultures languages generations and genders in their relations to auto biographical practices those interviewed include the famous and the hardly known women and men writers and performers who communicate in a variety of languages afrikaans english xhosa isizulu sesotho and yiddish an extensive introduction offers a general framework on the contestation of self through auto biography a historical overview of auto biographical representation in south africa up to the present time an outline of theoretical and thematic issues at stake in southern africa auto biography and extensive
