Eleven Great Religions of the World Today 2020-11-09 excerpt from the religions of mankind a small book was published in 1918 entitled the faiths of mankind it belonged to a series of college voluntary study courses and was prepared with that end in view since that time the desire has been repeatedly expressed that the writer prepare a volume with a wider public in view the needs of the general reader and ministers were to be kept in mind as well as students in their college and seminary courses coming directly out of contact with students in the classroom it is inevitable that the form of the present book and the selection and arrangement of material should be determined by that experience the guiding principle has been not to overload the text with a multiplicity of facts but to select and make use of such facts as are relevant to the main lines of development and to make clear their meaning and relationships to interpret facts has been looked upon as important as to present them one of the main problems with students is to prevent the confusion which results from presenting great quantities of material which they are not prepared to assimilate and make use of intelligently an introductory chapter on the nature of religion has been included no doubt such a subject can only be handled with satisfaction in a volume devoted to its consideration but even a rapid survey as is presented here may introduce the student to the subject in such a manner as to make far more intelligible than would otherwise be possible the studies of religions which follow the historical method is adhered to throughout about the publisher forgotten books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books find more at forgottenbooks.com this book is a reproduction of an important historical work forgotten books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy in rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition we do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works

Faiths and Religions of the World 2007-11-01 in this sense of the tracing of the growth of the religious consciousness through the passage of time it is not the religious spirit is eternal while the structure of the religions of the world is temporal being adapted to the changing demands of the human mind the phases of the true religious spirit are the content of our study to search out the religious content amongst the teachings of the religious and absorb the philosophic spirit from the thoughts of the various philosophers is not an easy undertaking for there is always the fear of one s being drowned under the waves of an ocean if religion is the way to perfection the religious fanaticism that we generally see prowling on the surface loses its meaning religion makes one broad minded loving charitable and divine and philosophy is the rationale behind religion philosophy and religion are inseparable the schools of jainism and buddhism provide an excellent psychological analysis and from important sections in the history of philosophy the different school thus may be regarded as complementary rather than contradictory one helping the other in a higher fulfillment which is transcendent to and yet immanent in the lower it is the exclusive emphasis laid by the followers of particular schools that has led to the erroneous notion of one school being opposed to the other as a child cannot be said to be set in opposition to the adolescent or the mature in age schools of thought and even faiths of mankind cannot be among themselves into a growing organism and furnish an ultimate support for man s existence and living thought their creative activity

The Religions of the World and Their Relations to Christianity, Considered in Eight Lectures Founded by the Hon. Robert Boyle

Christianity Among the Religions of the World 1957 a new philosophy of religion for a secular world how can we live in such a way that we die only once how can we organize a society that gives us a better chance to be fully alive how can we reinvent religion so that it liberates us instead of consoling us these questions stand at the center of roberto mangabeira unger s the religion of the future an argument for both spiritual and political revolution it proposes the content of a religion that can survive without faith in a transcendent god or in life after death according to this religion the religion of the future human beings can be more human by becoming more godlike not just later in another life or another time but right now on earth and in their own lives they can become more godlike without denying the irreparable flaws in the human condition our mortality groundlessness and insatiability
