this book attempts to shake up the current complacency around therapy and mental health behaviours by putting therapy fully into context using social contextual analysis showing how changes to our social discursive and societal environments rather than changes to an individual s mind will reduce suffering from the mental health behaviours guerin challenges many assumptions about both current therapy and psychology and offers alternative approaches synthesized from sociology social anthropology sociolinguistics and elsewhere the book provides a way of addressing the mental health behaviours including actions talking thinking and emotions by taking people s external life situations into account and not relying on an imagined internal source guerin describes the broad contexts for current western therapies referring to social discursive cultural societal and economic contexts and suggests that we need to research the components of therapies and stop treating therapies as units he reframes different types of therapy away from their abstract jargons offering an alternative approach grounded in our real social worlds aligning with new thinking that challenges the traditional methods of therapy and also providing a better framework for rethinking psychology itself the book ultimately suggests more emphasis should be put on mental health behaviours as arising from social issues including the modern contexts of extreme capitalism excessive bureaucracy weakened discursive communities and changing forms of social relationships practical guidelines are provided for building the reimagined therapies into clinics and institutions where labelling and pathologizing the mental health behaviours will no longer be needed by putting mental health behaviours and therapy into a naturalistic or ecological social sciences framework this book will be practical and fascinating reading for professional therapists counsellors social workers and mental health nurses as well as academics interested in psychology and the social sciences more generally this book shows how psychological and social interventions can help people with psychosis it brings together both theoretical chapters that contribute to the reconceptualization of psychosis and clinical cases illustrating how contemporary psychotherapeutic intervention models can be applied in the treatment of this mental health condition with reflections strategies and practical guidelines demonstrating how these models can inform professional practice in mental healthcare chapters brought together in this volume aim to reflect a paradigm shift in psychosis care they present person centered models that lead to a way of seeing understanding and treating psychosis that is very different from the traditional biomedical model current authors and approaches are revolutionizing an outdated model trapped in purely pharmacological actions and tautological explanations of a biological nature where symptom control is the basic and fundamental form of approach and in which psychotherapeutic actions take second place as subsidiary to the former approaches such as acceptance and commitment therapy acceptance and recovery therapy by levels open dialogue compassion centered therapy or the hearing voices movement to name but a few of those presented in this book represent a journey of self knowledge and learning for those recovering from psychosis and have an intense transformative potential for the therapeutic team the fundamental principle that guides this book is to share models belonging to psychology that aim at personal development while respecting the needs values and goals of each person and that can be adopted by any professional or student of clinical psychology psychiatry nursing social work or any other discipline searching for more humanistic approaches to treat psychosis
