2007 this preface tells the story of how multimodal usability responds to a special challenge chapter 1 describes the goals and structure of this book the idea of describing how to make multimodal computer systems usable arose in the european network of excellence similar taskforce for cre ing human machine interfaces similar to human human communication 2003 2007 similar cc similar brought together people from multimodal signal processing and usability with the aim of creating enabling technologies for new kinds of multimodal systems and demonstrating results in research prototypes most of our colleagues in the network were in fact busy extracting features and guring out how to demonstrate progress in working interactive systems while claiming not to have too much of a notion of usability in system development and evaluation it was proposed that the authors support the usability of the many multimodal pro types underway by researching and presenting a methodology for building usable multimodal systems we accepted the challenge first and foremost no doubt because the formidable team spirit in similar could make people accept outrageous things second h ing worked for nearly two decades on making multimodal systems usable we were curious curious at the opportunity to try to understand what happens to traditional usability work that is work in human computer interaction centred around tra tional graphical user interfaces guis when systems become as multimodal and as advanced in other ways as those we build in research today technological advancements in recent years have enabled the development of tiny cheap disposable and self contained battery powered computers known as sensor nodes or motes which can accept input from an attached sensor process this input and transmit the results wirelessly to some interested device s when a number of these nodes work together conceivably up to hundreds of thousands a wireless sensor network wsn is formed research in the area of wireless sensor networks has become increasingly wide spread in recent years partly due to their wide range of potential uses and also partly due to the fact that the technology enabling such networks is now widely available from many different suppliers such as crossbow moteiv intel and sun java based motes these wireless sensor networks have the potential to allow a level of integration between computers and the physical world that to date has been virtually impossible the uses for such networks is almost limitless and include such diverse applications as a counter sniper system for urban warfare 1 tracking the path of a forest fire 2 determining the structural stability of a building after an earthquake 3 or tracking people or objects inside a building 4 etc
