this book contends that the long history of america s interaction with korea started with the signing of the treaty of peace amity commerce and navigation in 1882 and with the establishment of the seward shufeldt line william seward and robert shufeldt shared the same vision of achieving their american goal by opening korea and extending the seward shufeldt line from alaska to link it with the philippines and the samoan islands thus completing a perfect perimeter for the american era of the pacific and for its dominance in the asian market initiating diplomatic and trading relations with korea was commodore shufeldt s finishing touch on the plan for achieving american hegemony in the coming 20th century in turn the decline of chinese sphere of influence over the korean peninsula and the fall of russian power in the region with the consequential rise of japanese power there which led to a change from the ss line to the roosevelts theodore franklin line the colonization of korea the division of korea the korean war and has brought america back nearly full circle to that first encounter in pyeongyang the regrettable general sherman incident in 1866 this book argues that the united states must uphold its early commitment to peace and amity by now normalizing relations with north korea in order to bring closure to the korean question mega regional approach part two delves into aspects of development in north korea such as the limitations of national statistics the marketization of the economy integration with the rest of north east asia and the need for a spatial infrastructure strategy part three examines the case for reunification in the interests of both the south and north it argues that a transitional approach would be less costly and less risky than sudden reunification primarily via an early strategy of shifting more capital to the north and later by moderating migration flows to the south the book also examines whether the capital should remain in seoul or be relocated elsewhere should reunification occur professors students and public policy officials in the fields of asian studies regional economics and planning urban studies and political science and any reader interested in the future of korea will find this book very current and enlightening seoul is a colossus both in its physical presence and the demand it places on any intellectual effort to understand it how did it come to be how can a city this immense work underlying its spectacle and incongruities is a city that might be described as ill at ease with its own past the bitter rifts of japanese colonization persist as does the troubled aftermath of the korean war and its divisions the economic miracle on the han that followed is crosscut by memories of the violent dictatorship that drove it in seoul author ross king interrogates this contested history and its physical remnants tacking between the city s historiography and architecture with attention to monuments streets and other urban spaces the book s structuring device is the dichotomy of erasure and memory as necessary preconditions for reinvention king traces this phenomenon from the old dynasties to the japanese regime and wartime destruction he then follows the equally destructive reinvention of korea under dictatorship to the brilliant city of the present with its extraordinary explosion of creativity and ideas the post 1991 hallyu the korean wave the final chapter returns to questions of forgetting and memory but now as conditions of possibility for what would seem to underlie the present trajectory of this extraordinary city and culture seoul can be read king suggests in the context of the hybrid ideas that have characterized korean cultural history it may be their present eruption that accounts for the city of contradictions that confronts the contemporary observer and that most extraordinary of korean phenomena the rise of an alternative virtual world eclipsing both city and nation has the very idea of korea been reinvented even as the weakly defined nation state slips away this task force report comprehensively reviews the situation on the peninsula as well as the options for u s policy it provides a valuable ranking of u s interests and calls for a firm commitment from the obama administration to seek denuclearization of the korean peninsula backed by a combination of sanctions incentives and sustained political pressure in addition to increased efforts to contain proliferation it notes that china s participation in this effort is vital indeed the report makes clear that any hope of north korea s dismantling its nuclear program rests on china's willingness to take a strong stance for denuclearization to proceed china must acknowledge that the long term hazard of a nuclear korea is more perilous to it and the region than the short term risk of instability the report also recognizes that robust relations between washington and its allies in the region japan and south korea must underpin any efforts to deal with the north korean problem it looks as well at regime change and scenarios that could lead to reunification of the peninsula at the same time that the task force emphasizes the danger and urgency of north korea's behavior it recognizes and applauds the beneficial u.s. relationship with south korea which has proved to be a valuable economic and strategic partner in this vein the task force advocates continued close coordination with seoul and urges prompt congressional passage of the u.s. south korea free trade agreement the current research aims to provide analytical understandings on the costs and benefits of korean unification from political social and economic aspects upon the two years of earlier works we constructed an analytical model encompassing both spatial and temporal dimensions of the unification process and built comprehensive architecture the guiding type of unification based on this model we have broaden the scope of the research by collecting diverse perspectives from the worldwide experts of the leading countries we expect to observe the global trends of world governance indeed the increasing importance of group of twenty g 20 countries in managing global problems reflects both political and social aspects of the changes occurring in global governance another reason for this would be south korea s diversified international relations in the recent years hence it seems necessary to take a closer look on the international dimensions of korean unification in this vein we requested thirteen experts of the leading countries to express their opinions on korean unification in order to collect international perspectives in a coordinated manner scholars were provided with a guideline to include their perspectives on the expected effects of korean unification and the potential roles of their countries during and after the process participants were also asked to present candid implications for korean unification argentina whose food supply is abundant laid stress on providing assistance in terms of food security during the unification australia who has special concerns in asian security suggested a comprehensive support not only as a mediator but also as one of the u s alliance due to remote distance to asia brazil is relatively less affected by the unification brazil however expressed that it has a keen interest in transmission of its experience regarding nuclear issues with argentina similar to brazil s stance the effects of the unification influence is indirect to canada nevertheless canada could play a role in providing humanitarian assistance and could be a potential destination for north korean refugee resettlement france one of the most influential members in the european union and the united nations made a suggestion to promote institution building in east asia that can promote stability in the region germany the only country who had experienced unification presented its interest in participating actively in the process of korean unification through public and private sectors india assumed that the unification of korea leads to the denuclearization of the peninsula and would see this as a positive sign for stability of the region since it would limit or end north korea s nuclear weapon transmits with pakistan indonesia could contribute to regional peace and stability through asean and its extensions as south korea can call upon indonesia to engage in the peace process italy who especially pointed out the role of european union as a whole is well poised to contribute to economic and social development with north korea through technical assistance mexico can and expressed its willingness to play an active role in the unification process through international organizations south africa who had been successful in national reconciliation and denuclearization is very likely to provide its experience and can be a strong voice for the npt and arms control in the international society advocating south korea s policy in korean unification turkey explicitly mentioned that it will side with seoul if there is a possible conflict in the peninsula the author emphasized that the international community must be well informed on how korean unification will take place last but not least the united kingdom author suggested that koreans will have to resolve emotional conflicts for reconciliation considering how both koreas have dealt educational matters concerning the division of the peninsula this may face a major challenge in the future generation thirteen countries diversely manifested positions on the unifying process are indicative of perceptual change that the issue of korean unification is no longer a regional issue but an international one in which multiple actors have their own stakes within upon the previously suggested implications we categorized the countries into three groups bystanders supporters and interveners this categorization reflects the assertiveness of each country or coercive level of each country s assistance instrumented towards the two koreas during the unifying process in the conclusion based on our final analysis we provided recommendations for the policy makers first diversified diplomacy creates an amicable international environment for unification policies beyond the power politics of the four powers second activation of leading countries roles is strategically advantageous to activate the meaningful roles of these leading countries to minimize the four powers concerns third emphasizing the formation of multilateral system would provide leading countries with an additional motivation to actively participate in the unification process furthermore multilateral efforts to achieve korean unification are also expected to contribute to the furtherance of democratic elements in the dynamics of international relations as a whole fourth it is now high time for us to conduct more public diplomacy by devising new and creative methodologies the global research project of this kind could be one of the most effective public diplomatic tools lastly the unification between two koreas can no longer be considered as a regional issue within northeast asia since others including the leading countries conceive their national interests along the process of unification on the korean peninsula in diverse ways overall thirteen countries recommendations underline the significance of collective efforts in addressing the unification process and suggest south korea to learn lessons from the experience that they have undergone in the past keywords argentina australia brazil canada france germany india indonesia italy mexico south africa turkey united kingdom expectation role effect contents acknowledgments abstract I introduction II effects and roles 1 argentina 2 australia 3 brazil 4 canada 5 france 6 germany 7 india 8 indonesia 9 italy 10 mexico 11 south africa 12 turkey 13 united kingdom III analysis and evaluation 1 expected effect 2 potential roles 3 classification of leading countries IV conclusion references recent publications

the korean war occupies a unique place in american history and foreign policy because it followed closely after world war ii and ushered in a new era of military action as the first hot conflict of the cold war the korean war was marketed as an entirely new kind of military campaign but how were the war weary american people convinced that the limited objectives of the korean war were of paramount importance to the nation in this ground breaking book steven casey deftly analyzes the truman and eisenhower administrations determined efforts to shape public discourse about the war influence media coverage of the conflict and gain political support for their overall approach to waging the cold war while also trying to avoid inciting a hysteria that would make it difficult to localize the conflict the first in depth study of truman s and eisenhower s efforts to garner and sustain support for the war selling the korean war weaves a lucid tale of the interactions between the president and government officials journalists and public opinion that ultimately produced the twentieth century concept of limited war it has been popularly thought that the public is instinctively hostile towards any war fought for less than total victory but casey shows that limited wars place major constraints on what the government can say and do he also demonstrates how the truman administration skillfully rededicated and redefined the war as it dragged on with mounting casualties using a rich array of previously untapped archival resources including official government documents and the papers of leading congressmen newspaper editors and war correspondents casey s work promises to be the definitive word on the relationship between presidents and public opinion during america s forgotten war
