has reshaped our understanding of later european prehistory and at the same time also opened up for more fruitful collaborations between archaeologists and historical linguists two revolutionary genetic studies published independently in nature 2015 showed that prehistoric europe underwent two successive waves of migration one from anatolia consistent with the introduction of agriculture and a later influx from the pontic caspian steppes which without any reasonable doubt pinpoints the archaeological yamnaya complex as the cradle of core indo european languages now for the first time when the preliminaries are clear it is possible for the fields of genetics archaeology and historical linguistics to cooperate in a constructive fashion to refine our knowledge of the indo european homeland migrations society and language for the historical comparative linguists this opens up a wealth of exciting perspectives and new working fields in the intersections between linguistics and neighbouring disciplines for the archaeologists and geneticists on the other hand the linguistic contributions help to endow the material findings with a voice from the past the present selection of phonology and morphology discusses the nature origins and development of language and lists the meanings and associated word for more than thirteen thousand indo european root words a comprehensive survey of the evidence from biological anthropology for indo european origins based on the author s ph d thesis prepared under professor james mallory the author first considers the various ways that languages can spread and the possible biological implications of these expansions he then embarks on an exhaustive survey of over 2 600 books and articles relating to the physical anthropology of the earliest identified speakers of indo european languages based on ancient texts artworks and lexicons covering europe and asia from the neolithic onwards his study surveys dermatoglyphics mummified corpses skeletal remains and genetic material for evidence of ancient population movements an attempt is then made to integrate findings from biological anthropology with data from linguistics archaeology and social anthropology to test the validity of migration theories in relation to the dispersal of the indo european languages and the possible location of a hypothesized proto indo european language the bibliography lists over 2 600 books and articles this study resurrects the genre of wortstudien contributions or lexilogus treatments the core of historical lexical semantics such studies used to be quite popular and interest in lexical matters is again rising the word family around the indo european root ag drive is placed against its germanic replacement drive as a typological parallel many long standing problems can now be solved and new hypotheses emerge starting with the still important sports and games aspect of social life new morphology is resurrected ag n games as an original plural 2 and a strongly social meaning for good agathos 3 aganos finds its solution that combines the mild and plant readings in a natural way 4 hunting and gathering considerations establish new possibilities or certainties for some wealth words 6 and all around religion is involved 7 comparable baltic finnic evidence is drawn in 8 and such evidence is used to discuss cases on both sides this way explanations for the indo european material are strengthened or even made possible in the first place and scores of baltic finnic words find attractive driving loan hypotheses as their etymologies this translation of the german edition first published in 1970 introduces the standard text on the comparative historical method to an english speaking audience after surveying the general principles of diachronic comparative linguistics the book uses these principles to analyze the phonological and morphological structure of the indo european language group each section of the book has a detailed bibliography so readers can progress from the general overview to a more in depth examination of particular topics this book argues that the indo europeanizing of europe essentially began shortly before 1600 bc when lands rich in natural resources were taken over by military forces from the eurasian steppe and from southern caucasia first were the copper and silver mines along with good harbors in greece and the copper and gold mines of the carpathian basin by ca 1500 bc other military men had taken over the amber coasts of scandinavia and the metalworking district of the southern alps these military takeovers offer the most likely explanations for the origins of the greek keltic germanic and italic subgroups of the indo european language family battlefield warfare and militarism robert drews contends were novelties ca 1600 bc and were a consequence of the military employment of chariots current opinion is that militarism and battlefield warfare are as old as formal states going back before 3000 bc another current opinion is that the indo europeanizing of europe happened long before 1600

bc the kurgan theory of marija gimbutas and david anthony dates it from late in the fifth to early in the third millennium bc and explains it as the result of horse riding conquerors or raiders coming to europe from the steppe colin renfrew s archaeology and language dates the indo europeanizing of europe to the seventh and sixth millennia bc and explains it as a consequence of the spread of agriculture in a wave of advance from anatolia through europe pairing linguistic with archaeological evidence draws concludes that in greece and italy at least no indo european language could have arrived before the second millennium bc anthropology the indo european homeland problem a matter of timethe indo european question in a norwegian perspectivethe narva culture and the origin of baltic culturethe pan european corded ware horizon a horizon and the pamari baltic coastal cultureburial of the west and east balts in the bronze and early iron agessome remarks about northern europeans in the forming of the baltsthe vistulian dneiper community of the sub neolithic culturesceramics and age a correlation in early european pottery linguistics meillet s northwest indo european revisitedthe ancient relationship of the baltic and germanic languages from the standpoint of word formation seeworter and substratum in germanic baltic and baltic finno ugrian languagesindo european architectural terms and the pre indo europeansthe pre germanic substrata and germanic maritime vocabulary culture and mythology marija gimbutas the investigator of baltic mythologyconcepts of sacrifice in later prehistoric europecustoms of the ancient prussians in germanreligious authenticity at the holy wells of ireland a methodological problemdawn maid and sun maid celestial goddesses among the proto indo europeansindo european implications of an old english documentancient baltic according to ethnoinstrumentological data physical anthropology anthropological substratum of the balts in prussia and lithuaniathe odontological characteristics of lithuanian balts and their rootsmulti ethnicity in pre indo european northeast europe theoretical and empirical constraints on the interpretation of human biodiversitychanges of population biological status during the indo europeanization of lithuaniathe light eye and hair cline implications for indo european migrations to northern europe when did the indo europeans enter the lands that they occupied during historical times and more specifically when did the greeks come to greece robert drews brings together the evidence historical linguistic and archaeological to tackle these important questions an account of the development of the indo european vowel system in its latest stages this book is a result of the ongoing activity centered on discovering and understanding the mythic religions social and legal underpinnings of the ancient indo european speaking continuum in terms of their oldest or most archaic manifestations without dustcover spine slightly damaged at bottom ex libris usual library stamps and markings text absolutely clean condition good this book argues that the indo europeanizing of europe essentially began shortly before 1600 bc when lands rich in natural resources were taken over by military forces from the eurasian steppe and from southern caucasia first were the copper and silver mines along with good harbors in greece and the copper and gold mines of the carpathian basin by ca 1500 bc other military men had taken over the amber coasts of scandinavia and the metalworking district of the southern alps these military takeovers offer the most likely explanations for the origins of the greek keltic germanic and italic subgroups of the indo european language family battlefield warfare and militarism robert drews contends were novelties ca 1600 bc and were a consequence of the military employment of chariots current opinion is that militarism and battlefield warfare are as old as formal states going back before 3000 bc another current opinion is that the indo europeanizing of europe happened long before 1600 bc the kurgan theory of marija gimbutas and david anthony dates it from late in the fifth to early in the third millennium bc and explains it as the result of horse riding conquerors or raiders coming to europe from the steppe colin renfrew s archaeology and language dates the indo europeanizing of europe to the seventh and sixth millennia bc and explains it as a consequence of the spread of agriculture in a wave of advance from anatolia through europe pairing linguistic with archaeological evidence drews concludes that in greece and italy at least no indo european language could have arrived before the second millennium bc
