aristocrat and the community are dialogues that take place among friends through the course of a night aristocrat is concerned with what it means to want to rule with the comparison of aristocracy to democracy and with duty the friends begin by touching upon excellence aristocracy s traditional claim to rule they soon come to question whether there are in fact but two true claims to rule force or a system of belief in addition they ponder their commitment to the cause a potentially transpolitical cause aristocrat attempts to answer several whats what is the cause what does it involve and what does it mean to serve the community attempts to demonstrate a how how to create the new city a new city determined to set itself apart from the outside world discussions of the degree to which quality can be controlled from above and debates over the degree of control versus freedom that would make the city an ideal place to live are interwoven with a concern for viability represented by the bank whose interests it seems must always be taken into account is the creation of an ideal community an effort that is doomed to be utopian

when studying the planning behind the combined operations cross channel raids that harassed the germans along the coast of occupied france during the second world war one name appears repeatedly that of captain john jock hughes hallett hughes hallett was deputy director of the local defense division at the admiralty in 1940 and 1941 before becoming naval adviser at combined operations headquarters along with the head of combined operations lord louis mountbatten hughes hallett orchestrated the commando raids from norway to normandy attacks which tied down german troops far in excess of the numbers employed on the raids hughes hallett became commodore commanding the channel assault force known as j force and naval chief of staff x from 1942 to 1943 he is perhaps best known for being the naval commander of the dieppe raid of august 1942 and attack which despite its disastrous outcome led to one of the most important decisions regarding the d day landings of june 1944 at a meeting following the dieppe raid hughes hallett declared that if a port could not be captured then one should be taken across the channel although this was met with derision at the time the concept of mulberry harbours began to take shape when hughes hallett moved to be naval chief of staff to the operation overlord planners it was in the planning for d day that the then commodore hughes hallett s experience came to the fore the ultimate success of that enormously complex operation owed much to his many years in combined operations hughes hallett retired from the royal navy with the rank of vice admiral taking up a new career as member of parliament for croydon east and then croydon north east it is remarkable that the hughes hallett memoirs have not been published until now for without doubt they constitute one of the most important wartime autobiographies to presented to the world in recent decades
