International Trade in Services

2010-06-24

the services sector is key to economic growth competitiveness and poverty alleviation comprising more than two thirds of the world economy services are now commonly traded across borders helped by technological progress and the increased mobility of persons in recent years a number of developing countries have looked at trade in services as a means to both respond to domestic supply shortages and to diversify and boost exports any country can tap into the trade potential of services but not every country can become a services hub across sectors the opening of the services sector potentially comes with large benefits but also fears and costs that should not be overlooked this book provides useful guidelines for the assessment of a country s trade potential and a roadmap for successful opening and export promotion in select services sectors it looks at both the effects of increased imports and exports and provides concrete examples of developing country approaches that have either succeeded or failed to maximize the benefits and minimize the risks of opening it focuses on sectors that have been rarely analyzed through the trade lens and or have a fast growing trade potential for developing countries these sectors are accounting construction distribution engineering environmental health information technology and legal services this book is designed for non trade specialists to understand how trade can help improve access to key services in developing countries and for trade specialists to understand the specific characteristics of each individual sector it will be a useful tool for governments to design successful trade opening or promotion strategies and for the private sector and consumers to advocate sound domestic policy reforms accompanying an offensive trade agenda

WTO - Trade in Services 2008-05-19

this volume will be a valuable reference tool for the wto community as a whole as well as for professionals and researchers who deal with one of the sectors concerned e g financial services and telecommunications

A Handbook of International Trade in Services 2007-11-22

international trade and investment in services are an increasingly important part of global commerce advances in information and telecommunication technologies have expanded the scope of services that can be traded cross border many countries now allow foreign investment in newly privatized and competitive markets for key infrastructure services such as energy telecommunications and transport more and more people are travelling abroad to consume tourism education and medical services and to supply services ranging from construction to software development in fact services are the fastest growing components of the global economy and trade and foreign direct investment fdi in services have grown faster than in goods over the past decade and a half international transactions however continue to be impeded by policy barriers especially to foreign investment and the movement of service providing individuals developing countries in particular are likely to benefit significantly from further domestic liberalization and the elimination of barriers to their exports in many instances income gains from a reduction in protection to services may be far greater than from trade liberalization in goods in light of the increasing importance of international trade in services and the inclusion of services issues on the agendas of the multilateral regional and bilateral trade negotiations there is an obvious need to understand the economic implications of services trade and liberalization a handbook of international trade in services provides a comprehensive introduction to the subject making it an essential reference for trade officials policy advisors analysts academics and students beginning with an overview on the key issues in trade in services and discussion of the gaps the book then looks at trade negotiations in the service sector the barriers to trade in services and concludes by looking at a number of specific service sectors such as financial services e-commerce health services and the temporary movement of workers

Trade in Services Negotiations

this book aims at contributing to address some of the challenge that developing countries especially the least developing countries face in the design of trade in service policies and to provide governments with tools to better incorporate services in their export strategies including negotiations and cooperation with trading partners and unilateral reforms this book helps to identify key policy challenges faced by developing country trade negotiators regulatory policy officials and or service suppliers management of both policy reforms and trade agreements requires investments in sounder regulatory regimes and the establishment of enforcement mechanisms to help countries gradually opening and mitigate any potential downside risks a successful strategy requires a proper sequencing that through an orderly and transparent process allows to prepare for greater competition developing countries face serious resource and administrative constraints to adequately negotiate multiple services agreements that serve their trade interest for many developing countries the administrative burden of handling and negotiating multiple trade agreements has become a serious concern and this can hamper their opportunities to obtain adequate market access for their services exports the book develops in detail the methodological framework for the construction of a database and the core elements that will comprise it to help countries to organize and manage their services commitments little attention has been devoted to the organization preparation and the development assessment and conclusion of the negotiation process the book presents a simulation exercise designed for policymakers trade negotiators and trade practitioners working in the area of services this exercise will help them to better understand the preparatory and negotiating stages of the process leading to liberalization of trade in services

the world trade organisation plays the primary role in regulating international trade in goods services and intellectual property traditionally international trade law and regulation has been analysed primarily from the trade in goods perspective services are becoming an important competence for the wto the institutional legal and regulatory influence of the general agreement on trade in services gats on domestic economic policymaking is attracting increasing attention in the academic and policymaking literature the growing importance of services trade to the global economy makes the application of the gats to trade in services an important concern of international economic policy the gats contains important innovations that build on the former gatt and existing wto gatt trade regime for goods this book fills a void in the academic and policymaking literature by examining how the gats governs international trade in services and its growing impact on the regulatory practice of wto member states it offers a unique discussion of the major is sues confronting wto member states by analysing the gats and related international trade issues from a variety of perspectives that include law political economy regulation and business moreover the role of the wto in promoting liberalised trade and economic development has come under serious strain because of the breakdown of the doha development round negotiations the book analyses the issues in the doha services debate with some suggested policy approaches that might help build a more durable gats framework the book is a welcomed addition to the wto literature and will serve as a point of reference for academics policymakers and practitioners in 2012 u s and european firms accounted for the highest share of revenue generated by the top international architecture and engineering firms in africa at 27 and 31 percent respectively according to a u s international trade commission trade brief these findings show that company revenues growth in an overseas market does not just have to depend on the sale of manufactured products or agricultural commodities opportunities also exist for service providers international trade in services effective practice and policy addresses a reality that receives minimal attention in the current debate about international trade how the export and import of services drive a significant portion of international trade the united states has a us 269 billion surplus in trade in services with the world on other hand u s trade in goods with the world continues to experience a wide trade deficit of us 946 billion nevertheless u s policy response focuses mainly on the manufacturing and agricultural sectors in addition as an international trade educator in business schools at different universities many of the textbooks emphasize the various aspects of importing and exporting goods workshops aimed to educate and inform the business community also focus on the trade in goods consequently business students and practitioners miss another important component of international trade that presents opportunities trade in services the book provides a simple yet thorough introduction on how to export a service to an overseas market the book will guide its audience with a step by step process on exporting a service from research to strategy to implementation furthermore the book will highlight the opportunities presented by the international level general agreement on trade in services gats and bilateral and regional level reciprocal trade agreements service providers will be able to use the book as a guide to start the export process successfully with the first step essentially the book will provide results in the following areas time savings the step by step process highlight of various programs and list of key resources will save a future exporter of a service the time that he she would spend trying to just understand another market frustration reduction the book s outline of the formal mechanisms available to service exporters will save them the frustration that may arise from encountering trade practices some of which can also be very costly in different markets that make it difficult to compete against local service providers money savings having substantive knowledge of formal mechanisms and key resources that help to reduce the risks associated with exporting to another market such as not receiving payment will help the services based exporter to use its financial resources more efficiently while reducing its risk of nonpayment
