style especially concerning the syncopated off beat accents and feeling the groove that keeps the music circulating beyond that i wanted to cover all the possible key signatures in these ten pieces even at the price that i had to notate the two voices of the last two movements in different keys these little compositions were created as a relaxing process immediately after i finished my big project the flute expedition a series introducing extended flute techniques and the world of contemporary music through 42 solo pieces unlike this other series that took me years to finish these duets were born within a few days and it was an entertaining spare time activity for me as i hope it will be for many flutists and audiences around the world the titles of the individual movements all refer to this too determining periods and situations when time can be handled freely and when we might find a partner with whom we want to spend a few pleasant minutes playing these duets

Three duets 2024-03 a selection of music to celebrate festivals around the world arranged for solo flute flute duet and flute trio standard grade 1 4 Classical Sheet Music for Flute with Flute and Piano Duets Book 1 emb those who know my flute works will find this flute duets cycle quite surprising my works are generally built on the new technique of the flute and often present strenuous difficulties and a modern language although humor appears here and there in my older compositions too and some of them lean toward popular styles these duets are unusual for me they were created precisely to servethe light entertainment of the performer and the listener without any ulterior motive in my youth i spent ten years playing in anacoustic fusion band talizman this experience can be considered an antecedent of these works written in a traditional language and notation these pieces are musically and technically uncompliated and can be enjoyed by students amateurs and the general audience they are also appropriate for teacher and pupil everyday duets i refrained from writing dramatic passages with much harmonic tension instead i tried to come up with catchy melodies with characteristics of pop film music musical theater jazz or latin styles that we can even whistle when we are in a good mood most of these melodies came to my mind this way at first however an important pedagogical purpose also appears here one can count on rhythmic challenges typical of popular music genres rather than deriving from the contemporary classical language here besides paying detailed attention to having metric precision one has to recognize and adopt the proper phrasing articulation and nuances of the sound typical of the style especially concerning the syncopated off beat accents and feeling the groove that keeps the music circulating beyond that i wanted to cover all the possible key signatures in these ten pieces even at the price that i had to notate the two voices of the last two movements in different keys these little compositions were created as a relaxing process immediately after i finished my big project the flute expedition a series introducing extended flute techniques and the world of contemporary music through 42 solo pieces unlike this other series that took me years to finish these duets were born within a few days and it was an entertaining spare time activity for me as i hope it will be for many flutists and audiences around the world the titles of the individual movements all refer to this too determining periods and situations when time can be handled freely and when we might find a partner with whom we want to spend a few pleasant minutes playing these duets Easy Sheet Music for Flute with Flute and Piano Duets Book 1
