with the rapid development of artificial intelligence and the emergence of various new sensors autonomous driving has grown in popularity in recent years the implementation of autonomous driving requires new sources of sensory data such as cameras radars and lidars and the algorithm processing requires a high degree of parallel computing in this regard traditional cpus have insufficient computing power while dsps are good at image processing but lack sufficient performance for deep learning although gpus are good at training they are too power hungry which can affect vehicle performance therefore this book looks to the future arguing that custom asics are bound to become mainstream with the goal of ics design for autonomous driving this book discusses the theory and engineering practice of designing future oriented autonomous driving soc chips the content is divided into thirteen chapters the first chapter mainly introduces readers to the current challenges and research directions in autonomous driving chapters 2-6 focus on algorithm design for perception and planning control chapters 7-10 address the optimization of deep learning models and the design of deep learning chips while chapters 11-12 cover automatic driving software architecture design chapter 13 discusses the 5g application on autonomous driving this book is suitable for all undergraduates graduate students and engineering technicians who are interested in autonomous driving this text discusses the meaning of education through an examination of life paths identities and significant learning experiences looking at education over three generations of war and scant education of structural change and increasing educational opportunities and of social well being and wide educational choice the book examines a variety of questions the book demonstrates how the synthesis of social and cultural interpretations of education forms four groups resource status conformity and individualism the implications to education policy in late modern or postmodern society are also discussed

The Zoological Journal 1825 it was to be a journey of comradery and companionship of finding one s place and purpose in a dark medieval world but it wasn t meant to be a group of warriors friends across countless battles and a woman vowing to never let herself be weakened by the presence of others are forced to watch as the rules and limits of their world are shattered by forces far beyond their own comprehension monsters and demons no longer myths trap them in a living hell devoid of hope of survival or escape their only salvation lies in their ability to fight but can they survive without losing what makes them human the ecology of papua provides a comprehensive review of current scientific knowledge on all aspects of the natural history of western indonesian new guinea designed for students of conservation environmental workers and academic researchers it is a richly detailed text dense with biogeographical data historical reference and fresh insight on this complicated and marvelous region we hope it will serve to raise awareness of papua on a global as well as local scale and to catalyze effective conservation of its most precious natural assets new guinea is the largest and highest tropical island and one of the last great wilderness areas remaining on earth papua the western half of new guinea is noteworthy for its equatorial glaciers its vast forested floodplains its imposing central mountain range its raja ampat archipelago and its several hundred traditional forest dwelling societies one of the wildest places left in the world papua possesses extraordinary biological and cultural diversity today papua s environment is under threat from growing outside pressures to exploit its expansive forests and to develop large plantations of oil palm and biofuels it is important that papua s leadership balance economic development with good resource management to ensure the long term well being of its culturally diverse populace
