allocation of the oceans and the uses of the oceans have posed major difficulties for the development of international law for many years the geneva conference of 1958 building upon the groundwork of the international law commission of the united nations shaped a rough structure for a 20th century law of the seas and formulated the effort in four major international conventions but a majority of the states failed to ratify or accede to the conventions even had they become effective as the expression of the law of the seas in the second half of the 20th century there was one glaring area of omission a conventional law for the waters of mid ocean archipelagos and archipelagic states

the need for freedoms of navigation in regional waters is frequently mentioned in statements from regional forums but a common understanding of what constitutes a particular freedom of navigation or the relevant law is lacking this book discusses how law politics and strategy intersect to provide different perspectives of freedoms on navigation in the asia pacific region these freedoms are very important in this distinctively maritime region but problems arise over interpreting the navigational regimes under the law of the sea especially with regard to the rights of foreign warships to transit another country s territorial sea without prior notification or authorisation of the coastal state and with determining the availability of high seas freedoms of navigation and overflight in an exclusive economic zone the book explores these issues referring in particular to the position of the main protagonists on these issues in asian waters the united states and china with their strongly opposing views the book concludes with a discussion of the prospects for either resolving these different perspectives or for developing confidence building measures that would reduce the risks of maritime incidents providing a comprehensive yet concise overview of the various different factors affecting freedom of navigation this book will be a valuable resource for those working or studying in the fields of international relations maritime security and the law of the sea

this book analyses the implementation of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea (UNCLOS) in the light of state practices of China and Japan. The special character of the book can be found in its structure of comparative analysis of the practices of China and Japan. In each part, the focus is on historical aspects. Part I: Implementation of the UNCLOS; Part II: Navigation; Part III: Mid-ocean archipelagos; Part IV: The marine environment; Part V: Dispute settlement; Part VI: By taking this approach, the book elucidates a variety of aspects of history, difficulties, problems, and controversies arising from the implementation of the UNCLOS by the two nations. Furthermore, contributors from China and Japan tend to show different perspectives on the UNCLOS, which by clarifying the need for further debate are expected to contribute to the continuing cooperation between the academics of the two states.

comprising 11 countries and hundreds of languages from one of the most culturally diverse regions in the world the chapters in this collection explore a wide range of translation issues the subject of this volume is set in the contrasted landscapes of mainland peninsulas and maritime archipelagos in southeast asia which whilst remaining a largely minor area in asian studies harbors a wealth of textual heritage that opens to inquiries and new readings from the post angkor cambodia the post colonial viantiane to the ultra modern singapore metropolis translation figures problematically in the modernization of indigenous literatures criss crossing chronologically and spatially through different literary landscapes the peninsular geo body gives rise to the politics of singularity as seen in the case of the predominant monolingual culture in thailand whereas the archipelagic geography such as the thousand islands of indonesia allows for peculiar types of communication translation can also be metaphorized poetically to configure the transference in different scenarios such as the cases of self translation in philippine protest poetry and untranslatability in vietnamese diasporic writings the collection also includes intra regional comparative views on historical and religious terms this book will appeal to scholars and postgraduate students of translation studies sociolinguistics and southeast asian studies
