United States Engagement in the Asia Pacific: Perspectives from Asia

2015-07-15

this study brings together asian and asia based experts of international relations and u s foreign policy to present diverse asian views about preferred modes of u s engagement in the region and compare their views with u s interests in the region a prerequisite exercise to truly multilateral regional security governance with the rise of chinese power in absolute and relative terms over the next decades as a key driving factor of the international relations in the asia pacific the united states has announced its rebalance to asia previously referred as pivot to asia strategy asian responses perceptions and even interpretations of the u s strategy have been diverse misconceptions of the u s strategy can be attributed to the built in contradictions among its objectives deliberate ambiguities left by the architects of the strategy mismatch between the stated strategy and actual policy implementations during the last three years and subjective reading by the asian countries through the lens of their own interests this book will illuminate the diversity of asian responses and perceptions and analyze the underlying reasons of the diversity the overarching framework of analysis for this book is the very dilemma of alliances abandonment and entrapment which hedging aims at evading abandonment fear is primarily of the junior partner of an alliance that its senior partner may not come to its aid in crisis meanwhile entrapment fear works both ways the united states may drag its allies into its conflict against a third party but u s allies may also drag the united states into their regional conflicts in which the united states has no direct or significant stake the asian choices of their strategic responses to the u s rebalancing will be described and analyzed through the lens of the perceived balance between the abandonment and entrapment fears as well as other historical and domestic factors unique to each asian country the reading of the u s strategy by asian countries is a subjective matter and their interests likely influence their analysis and consequently strategies it is not the aim of this volume to establish well defined cause and effect chain between the u s strategy and asian strategies but thick descriptions have enabled some chapter authors to identify reciprocal relations between the two while china s growth is the most important driver of the changing strategic landscape in the asia pacific and the new u s strategy the new u s strategy inevitably influence the chinese strategy which in turn triggers a chain reaction of strategic revisions in asian countries this book is essential reading for scholars in asian politics u s foreign policy international relations as well as for policy makers

Security Interdependence in the Asia Pacific Region

the asia pacific is arguably the most important but also the most complex and contested region on the planet containing three of the world s largest economies and some of its most important strategic relationships the region s capacity of regional elites to promote continuing economic development whilst simultaneously maintaining peace and stability will be one of the defining challenges of the twenty first century international order intuitively we might expect regional institutions to play a major role in achieving this yet one of the most widely noted characteristics of the asia pacific region has been its relatively modest levels of institutional development thus far however things are changing as individual economies in the asia pacific become more deeply integrated there is a growing interest in developing and adding to the institutions that already exist institutions of the asia pacific examines how this region is developing and what role established organisations like apec and new bodies like asean plus three are playing in this process an expert in the field mark beeson introduces the contested nature of the very region itself should it be the asia pacific or east asia to which we pay most attention and expect to see most institutional development by placing these developments in historical context he reveals why the very definition of the region remains unsettled and why the political economic and strategic relations of this remarkably diverse region remain fraught and difficult to manage the world's developed economies are experiencing a sharp backlash against globalisation and it appears to be contagious will asia catch it next asia has seen spectacular growth in recent decades it has benefited substantially from global trade finance openness and the rules based international order but much of the growth asia has enjoyed has not been shared it has not been inclusive growth inequality in asia is among the highest in the world the richest man in vietnam now earns more in a single day than the poorest person does in a decade asia has far to go in making its societies more inclusive to women ethnic minorities and the lgbt community how can asia reduce inequality what are the forces that determine whether growth in the asia pacific is inclusive or not and what can be done to make asia's growth more inclusive in the future this book brings together the region's leading thinkers to explore how to change asia's trajectory before it is too late the pacific trade and development paftad conference series has been at the forefront of analysing challenges facing the economies of east asia and the pacific since its first meeting in tokyo in january 1968

Great Powers and the Asia-Pacific

while global trade negotiations remain stalled two tracks of trade negotiations in the asia pacific the proposed trans pacific partnership tpp agreement and a parallel asian track could generate momentum for renewed liberalization and provide pathways to region wide free trade we estimate that world income would rise by 295 billion per year on the tpp track by 766 billion if both tracks are successful and by 1.9 trillion if the tracks ultimately combine to yield region wide free trade the tracks are competitive initially but their strategic implications appear to be constructive they generate incentives for enlargement and mutual progress and over time for region wide consolidation the 21st century template of the tpp would be especially productive because it is likely to offer opportunities for the leading sectors of both emerging market and advanced economies an ambitious tpp template would generate greater gains from integration than less demanding alternatives but it will be harder to sell to china and other key regional partners as the tpp evolves toward wider agreements the crucial importance of asia pacific integration argues for an early conclusion of the tpp negotiations but without jeopardizing the prospects for region wide or even global agreements based on it in the future provided by publisher
