as media reports declare crisis after crisis in public education americans find themselves hotly debating educational inequalities that seem to violate their nation s ideals why does success in school track so closely with race and socioeconomic status how to end these apparent achievement gaps in the crossfire brings historical perspective to these debates by tracing the life and work of marcus foster an african american educator who struggled to reform urban schools in the 1960s and early 1970s as a teacher principal and superintendent first in his native philadelphia and eventually in oakland california foster made success stories of urban schools and children whom others had dismissed as hopeless only to be assassinated in 1973 by the previously unknown symbionese liberation army in a bizarre protest against an allegedly racist school system foster s story encapsulates larger social changes in the decades after world war ii the great black migration from south to north the civil rights movement the decline of american cities and the ever increasing emphasis on education as a ticket to success well before the accountability agenda of the no child left behind act or the rise of charter schools americans came into sharp conflict over urban educational failure with some blaming the schools and others pointing to conditions in homes and neighborhoods by focusing on an educator who worked in the trenches and had a reputation for bridging divisions in the crossfire sheds new light on the continuing ideological debates over race poverty and achievement foster charted a course between the extremes of demanding too little and expecting too much of schools as agents of opportunity in america he called for accountability not only from educators but also from families taxpayers and political and economic institutions his effort to mobilize multiple constituencies was a key to his success and a lesson for educators and policymakers who would take aim at achievement gaps without addressing the full range of school and nonschool factors that create them nitrous oxide is no longer purely for drag and street racers this power boosting add on is now available for many production cars and even mopeds covering all aspects of nitrous oxide systems this book presents all the facts illustrated with 150 colour photographs in a clear and easy to understand way this book discusses public education reform in the united states the author focuses on the relationship between education and a dynamic culture he proposes three metaphors which reveal the cultural breaks in the educational system the metaphors are mind as muscle
