1991-92 Teacher Followup Survey Data File User's Manual 1994 this user's manual provides detailed instruction for the design of commercial and high rise residential buildings to ensure their compliance with ansi ashrae iesna standard 90 1 2004 in addition this manual encourages the user to apply the principles of effective energy conserving design when designing buildings and building systems offers information on the intent and application of standard 90 1 illuminates the standard through the use of abundant sample calculations and examples streamlines the process of showing compliance provides standard forms to demonstrate compliance provides useful reference material to assist designers in efficiently completing a successful and complying design this manual also instructs the user in the application of several tools used for compliance with standard 90 1 the envstd computer program used in conjunction with the building envelope trade off compliance method the selection and application of energy simulation programs used in conjunction with the energy cost budget method of compliance this manual is intended to be useful to numerous types of building professionals including architects and engineers who must apply the standard to the design of their buildings plan examiners and field inspectors who must enforce the standard in areas where it is adopted as code general and specialty contractors who must construct buildings in compliance with the standard product manufacturers state and local energy offices policy groups utilities and others

General GOAL Programming Users Manual 1976 an experimental program was conducted to investigate the interaction effects which occur between the nozzle exhaust flow and the external flow field associated with isolated nozzle afterbody configurations at transonic mach numbers pressure data were obtained from three afterbody geometries with boattail angles of 10 15 and 25 deg at mach numbers from 0.6 to 1.5 at zero angles of attack and sideslip cold high pressure air and hot air ethylene combustion jet test techniques were used to simulate and duplicate respectively the nozzle exhaust flow for a sonic jet installation nozzle exhaust temperature was varied from 540 to approximately 2 900 r the most significant results pertain to those effects on boattail pressure drag caused by exhaust plume temperature and flow asymmetry model support strut induced the differences obtained in boattail pressure drag between the cold jet simulation and hot jet duplication results were significant at nozzle pressure ratios representative for turbofan and turbojet engines at subsonic mach numbers adjusting the cold jet nozzle pressure ratio to correct for changes in the exhaust plume specific heat ratio with temperature did not account for the differences observed flow asymmetry effects were mach number and nozzle pressure ratio dependent and increased in severity as the boattail angle was increased

Users' manual 1978 the missoula technology and development center mt dc was asked to evaluate the use of floating bridges for trail crossings in very wet areas this report outlines the basic designs of floating structures it includes information about floating boat docks floating bridge designs anchorage systems and devices that allow the dock to adjust itself to varying water levels it also describes the situations where floating bridges may be a practical solution
