the committee's report finds that over the past decade the government has failed to rise fully to the domestic challenge of climate change and its likely failure to reach its domestic target on reducing carbon dioxide emissions will have a damaging impact on the UK's international leadership role in reaching a post-kyoto agreement although the government has introduced some new arrangements for co-ordinating climate change policy more effectively across Whitehall the scale of the challenge and the complexity involved in radically restructuring the economy to bring about the needed emission reduction targets requires further changes there is a need for a strategic review of government action to ensure that the leadership and responsibility for the development and delivery of climate change mitigation and adaptation policies is clear as well as a new long term policy framework to ensure that policies introduced today do not undermine our ability to reduce emissions in the future the committee also recommends that a new and authoritative body be established within the cabinet office to drive forward policy and to diminish the potential for a conflict of objectives between departments people passionately disagree about the nature of the globalization process the failure of both the 1999 and 2003 world trade organization s wto ministerial conferences in seattle and cancun respectively have highlighted the tensions among official international organizations like the wto the international monetary fund imf the world bank nongovernmental and private sector organizations and some developing country governments these tensions are commonly attributed to longstanding disagreements over such issues as labor rights environmental standards and tariff cutting rules in addition developing countries are increasingly resentful of the burdens of adjustment placed on them that they argue are not matched by commensurate commitments from developed countries challenges to globalization evaluates the arguments of pro globalists and anti globalists regarding issues such as globalization s relationship to democracy its impact on the environment and on labor markets including the brain drain sweat shop labor wage levels and changes in production processes and the associated expansion of trade and its effects on prices baldwin winters and the contributors to this volume look at multinational firms foreign investment and mergers and acquisitions and present surprising findings that often run counter to the claim that multinational firms primarily seek countries with low wage labor the book closes with papers on financial opening and on the relationship between international economic policies and national economic growth rates
