intervention forms index it is not with any pretension to special knowledge of my subject that i set out to write down what i know about children i have no special means of knowing anything i do in fact know nothing that cannot be known by any one who will go to the only fount of knowledge experience and by experience i do not mean scientific experience that is the recorded results of experiments the tabulated knowledge wrung from observation i mean personal experience that is to say memory you may observe the actions of children and chronicle their sayings and produce from these perhaps a lifelike sketch of a child as it appears to the grown up observer but observation is no key to the inner mysteries of a child s soul the only key to those mysteries is in knowledge the knowledge of what you yourself felt when you were good and little and a child you can remember how things looked to you and how things looked to the other children who were your intimates our own childhood besides furnishing us with an exhaustless store of enlightening memories furnishes us with the one opportunity of our lives for the observation of children other children there is a freemasonry between children a spontaneous confidence and giveand take which is and must be for ever impossible between children and grown ups selective mutism sm is an impairing behavioral condition in which a child fails to speak in certain social situations despite speaking regularly and normally in other situations sm presents a significant mental and public health problem due to impact on the social emotional and academic functioning of young children at a critical point in their development sm is closely related to childhood social phobia but it cannot be treated in the same way because of the young age of the children affected their lack of speech in the treatment setting and the need for significant school involvement in treatment treatment for children with selective mutism outlines the sequence and essential elements to guide clinicians through a comprehensive integrated program for young children who display symptoms of sm this approach utilizes behavioral interventions targeting gradual increases in speaking across settings in which the child initially has difficulty the integrated nature of the therapy refers to the goal of incorporating input from the clinician with that from the parents and teacher as well as others impacted by the lack of speech exposure exercises are based on behavioral techniques such as stimulus fading shaping and systematic desensitization that also allow for a less intense or gradual exposure to the speaking situation these techniques are combined and used flexibly with a behavioral reward system for participation in treatment the approach was developed by dr r lindsey bergman as part of the ucla childhood ocd anxiety and tic disorders program the treatment protocol consists of 20 sessions 60 minutes each delivered over the course of 24 weeks treatment for children with selective mutism is an invaluable guide for mental health professionals who deliver cbt based treatment to children and want to help those with sm welcome to the combined story workbook csw a book combined with a story and questions at the end of the story for children ages five through nine written to entertain but more importantly to stimulate the child s thinking and reasoning ability also to encourage academic progress during the most important years of a child s life the formative years the combined story workbook was also written to promote safety awareness for children a book that helps enlighten children to dangers in hopes that they will never become victims of them by equipping them with one of their most valuable weapons against dangers knowledge peanuts for penny the debut of the combined story workbook is a warm and loving story about three eight year old close friends and classmates when it s discovered that penny who loves peanuts is in

Tell Me a Story 2013-11-09 it is not with any pretension to special knowledge of my subject that i set out to write down what i know about children i have no special means of knowing anything i do in fact know nothing that cannot be known by any one who will go to the only fount of knowledge experience and by experience i do not mean scientific experience that is the recorded results of experiments the tabulated knowledge wrung from observation i mean personal experience that is to say memory you may observe the actions of children and chronicle their sayings and produce from these perhaps a lifelike sketch of a child as it appears to the grown up observer but observation is no key to the inner mysteries of a child s soul the only key to those mysteries is in knowledge the knowledge of what you yourself felt when you were good and little and a child you can remember how things looked to you and how things looked to the other children who were your intimates our own childhood besides furnishing us with an exhaustless store of enlightening memories furnishes us with the one opportunity of our lives for the observation of children other children there is a freemasonry between children a spontaneous confidence and giveand take which is and must be for ever impossible between children and grown ups
