The Art and Craft of Papier Mache 1995-04-01 from oaxacan wood carvings to dessert kitchens in provincial france critical craft presents thirteen ethnographies which examine what defines and makes craft in a wide variety of practices from around the world challenging the conventional understanding of craft as a survival a revival or something that resists capitalism the book turns instead to the designers diy enthusiasts traditional artisans and technical programmers who consider their labor to be craft in order to comprehend how they make sense of it the authors ethnographic studies focus on the individuals and communities who claim a practice as their own bypassing the question of craft survival to ask how and why activities termed craft are mobilized and reproduced moving beyond regional studies of heritage artisanship the authors suggest that ideas of craft are by definition part of a larger cosmopolitan dialogue of power and identity by paying careful attention to these sometimes conflicting voices this collection shows that there is great flexibility in terms of which activities are labelled craft in fact there are many related ideas of craft and these shape distinct engagements with materials people and the economy case studies from countries including mexico nigeria india taiwan the philippines and france draw together evidence based on linguistics microsociology and participant observation to explore the shifting terrain on which those engaged in craft are operating what emerges is a fascinating picture which shows how claims about craft are an integral part of contemporary global change

The Art and Craft of Whirligig Construction 2006 throughout the 21st century various craft practices have drawn the attention of academics and the general public in the west in craft is political d wood has gathered a collection of essays to argue that this attention is a direct response to and critique of the particular economic social and technological contexts in which we live just as ruskin and morris viewed craft and its ethos in the 1800s as a kind of political opposition to the industrial revolution wood and her authors contend that current craft activities are politically saturated when perspectives from the global south indigenous ideology and even western government policy are examined craft is political argues that a holistic perspective on craft in light of colonialism post colonialism critical race theory and globalisation is overdue a great diversity of case studies is included from craft and design in turkey and craft markets in new zealand to indigenous practitioners in taiwan and finnish craft education craft is political brings together authors from a variety of disciplines and nations to consider politicised craft

The Art and Craft of Appliqué 1991 an important reconceptualisation is taking place in the way people express creativity work together and engage in labour particularly suggests kidwell a surprising resurgence in recent years of manual and craft work noting the wide array of outlets that now market hand made goods and the array of popular books which advocate making as a basis for activism or personal improvement this book seeks to understand how the micro politics of craft work might offer insights for a broader theology of work why does it matter that we do work which is meaningful excellent and beautiful through a close reading of christian scripture the theology of craft and the craft of work examines the theology and ethics of work in light of original biblical exegesis kidwell presents a detailed exegetical study of temple construction accounts in the hebrew bible and the new testament illuminating a theological account of craft and employing the ancient vision of good work which is preserved in these biblical texts kidwell critically interrogates modern forms of industrial manufacture this includes a variety of contemporary work problems particularly the instrumentalisation and exploitation of the non human material world and the dehumanisation of workers primary themes taken up in the book include agency aesthetics sociality skill and the material culture of work culminating with the conclusion that the church or new temple is both the product and the site of moral work arguing that christian worship provides a moral context for work this book also examines early christian practices to suggest a theological reconceptualisation of work
